Emotions and Leadership in Organizations and Educational Institutes Osman Titrek,Anna Stavicka,Ana Campina,Gozde Sezen-Gultekin,Carlos Francisco De Sousa Reis,2023-11-28 Emotion management is an important source of social capital and synergy for organizations Managers have a great role in the creation of this synergy A manager who can cope with their emotions indirectly contributes to organizational effectiveness This situation is especially important in human oriented organizations providing services rather than goods such as educational institutions Leadership is a process of social influence which maximizes the efforts of others towards the achievement of a goal Leadership stems from social influence rather than authority or power In terms of system approach the input output process and feedback of educational organizations are always related to human behaviors Therefore organizations must address the nature of human beings in all of their managerial processes Although organizations in which people are at the foreground try to continue their functioning on a rational and formal basis throughout the managerial process they sometimes have to manage emotional and informal phenomena In this case there is a need for managers and school leaders who can shape the rationale in line with the requirements of human nature What is expected from this administrator is that they do not ignore human needs and emotions while providing the management of educational institutions For this reason these managers should be leaders rather than executives who only work in a formal framework of organization management Moreover principals and teachers should also be leaders in all educational processes Emotions are the main catalyst of positive organizational culture Leaders can create an effective organizational culture with the main source of positive emotions between employers Positive emotions also motivate employees for organizational purposes If a leader wishes to create and maintain an effective organizational culture it is essential to support positive behavior and emotional climate in their institutes and schools Leaders school

managers and teachers therefore need to develop emotion management abilities Educational organizations need to shape their organizational culture climate and psychology to support their leaders in efficiently managing their employees emotions Up to now this topic has been usually addressed as the main catalyst and a sub dimension of emotional intelligence Moreover current evidence classifies social and empathy skills as other sub dimensions of emotional intelligence For this reason this collection of peer reviewed articles will draw attention to the contemporary term emotional management and contribute to educational fields by means of exploring the relationship between emotions and leadership

Identifying, Describing, and Developing Teachers Who Are Gifted and Talented Van Sickle, Meta L., Swanson, Julie D., Bazler, Judith A., Lubniewski, Kathryn L., 2018-12-07 Much of the research about teachers focuses on those who can't don't aren't good in the classroom However teachers who are gifted and talented exist but there has been little attention to date on the characteristics and practices of such teachers in the classroom While few the examples of research on positive teacher attributes include work on the expert authentic and creative as well as examples of research on eminent adults Identifying Describing and Developing Teachers Who Are Gifted and Talented is an essential reference source that discusses behaviors and traits in teachers who are considered gifted and talented as well as case studies on the identification and preparation of teachers who fall into this category Featuring research on topics such as creative innovation emotional intelligence and skill development this book is ideally designed for educators administrators researchers and academicians

Teacher Selection and Interview Portfolios Ronald K. Theel, 2002-04-27 The major research questions for this study were a What forms do teacher interview portfolios take b What meaning do school principals make of these portfolios c How if at all are teacher portfolios being used by principals in deciding whom to hire This was a case study using qualitative research procedures The study was situated in the hiring policies and practices of Central City School District from 1995 to 1999 Semi structured interviews of 18 k 12 principals and 4 key informants were primary means of data gathering Document analyses supplemented interview data Interview portfolios typically consisted of lesson plans photographs of projects activities and teacher student interactions and supporting examples of classroom practice Statements of educational philosophy credentials letters of reference transcripts and other background information were also included Most principals viewed portfolios as a way for candidates to express their educational beliefs illustrate skills and methods and supplement the interview with examples from applicants experience Principals expressed a desire for more evidence of having used the portfolio development process as a means of reflection and introspection Overall interview portfolios were not key contributors to principals hiring decisions The reasons for this varied Some principals mentioned time constraints during interviews Others expressed skepticism that portfolios provided meaningful evidence of candidates teaching ability and people skills Propositions and implications for future research center on portfolio format and assessment criteria authenticity and self knowledge selection interview procedures teacher preparation teacher recruitment and hiring and information management in Central City School District Perhaps one of the most valuable benefits of the portfolio process lies in the development of a new norm for the profession placing discussion and debate about what constitutes good teaching into a public forum
