idea journal: co-constructing body-environment Julieanna Preston, 2020-12-09 This special guest edited issue extends the current discussions of art inclusive of interior spatial design and architecture as a process of social cognition and to address the gap between descriptions of embodied cognition and the co construction of lived experience Papers and exhibitions presented at the 2019 Bodies of Knowledge Conference have been advanced significantly as research articles and visual essays to focus on interdisciplinary connections across research practices that involve art and theories of cognition These contributions emphasise how spatial art and design research approaches have enabled the articulation of a complex understanding of environments spaces and experiences including the spatial distribution of cultural organizational and conceptual structures and relationships as well as surrounding design features Contributions address the following questions How do art and spatial practices increase the potential for knowledge transfer and celebrate diverse forms of embodied expertise How the examination of cultures of practice Indigenous knowledges and cultural practices offer perspectives on inclusion diversity neurodiversity disability and social justice issues How the art and spatial practices may contribute to research perspectives from contemporary cognitive neuroscience and the philosophy of mind The dynamic between an organism and its surroundings for example How does art and design shift the way knowledge and thinking processes are acquired extended and distributed How do art and design practices demonstrate the ways different forms of acquiring and producing knowledge intersect

A Guide to Planning for Community Character Lane H. Kendig, 2012-09-26 A Guide to Planning for Community Character adds a wealth of practical applications to the framework that Lane Kendig describes in his previous book Community Character The purpose of the earlier book is to give citizens and planners a systematic way of thinking about the attributes of their communities and a common language to use for planning and zoning in a consistent and reliable way This follow up volume addresses actual design in the three general classes of communities in Kendig s framework urban suburban and rural The author s practical approaches enable designers to create communities with the character that citizens actually want Kendig also provides a guide for incorporating community character into a comprehensive plan In addition this book shows how to use community character in planning and zoning as a way of making communities more sustainable All examples in the volume are designed to meet real world challenges They show how to design a community so that the desired character is actually achieved in the built result The book also provides useful tools for analyzing or measuring relevant design features Together the books provide a comprehensive treatment of community character offering both a tested theory of planning based on visual and physical character and practical ways to plan and measure communities The strength of this comprehensive approach is that it is ultimately less rigid and more adaptable than many recent flexible zoning codes
