Biodeconstruction Francesco Vitale, 2018-02-15 In Biodeconstruction Francesco Vitale demonstrates the key role that the question of life plays in Jacques Derrida's work In the seminar La vie la mort 1975 Derrida engages closely with the life sciences especially biology and evolution theory Connecting this line of thought to his analysis of cybernetics in Of Grammatology Vitale shows how Derrida develops a notion of biological life as itself a sort of text that is necessarily open onto further articulations and grafts This sets the stage for the deconstruction of the traditional opposition between life and death conceiving of death as an internal condition of the constitution of the living rather than being the opposite of life It also provides the basis for the deconstruction of the rigidly deterministic concept of the genetic program an insight that anticipates recent achievements of biological research in epigenetics and sexual reproduction Finally Vitale argues that this framework can enrich our understanding of Derrida's late work devoted to political issues connecting his use of the autoimmunitarian lexicon to the theory of cellular suicide in biology enforcing prohibitive pharmaceutical policies that disrespect people's rights to make intimate medical decisions and prevent patients from accessing potentially beneficial new therapies. This argument has revisionary implications for important and timely debates about medical paternalism, recreational drug legalization, human enhancement, prescription drug prices, physician-assisted suicide, and pharmaceutical marketing. The need for reform is especially urgent as medical treatment becomes increasingly personalized and patients advocate for the right to try. The doctrine of informed consent revolutionized medicine in the twentieth century by empowering patients to make treatment decisions. Rights of self-medication are the next step.
