What are Planets?

Planets are big spheres in outer space that orbit a star, like the sun. It forces them into a sphere shape, and then gravity also forces them away (off from them). Our solar system has eight planets: Mercury, Venus, Earth, Uranus, and Neptune. Pluto and Ceres used to be considered planets off them as dwarf planets. A dwarf planet is a smaller version of a planet strong enough to force away other big objects away from it, so it can extend.

Where are Planets?

In our outer space neighborhood (our solar system) there are eight planets, and one mystery hypothetical planet that orbits the sun. Our planets are very far away from each other. Each planet is miles away from the next planet and from the sun. Earth is the third planet. It is over 92 million miles from the sun.

Why do Planets Orbit the Sun?

When planets orbit the sun they circle around it on their own invisible paths. Those paths are called orbits. The sun's gravity is what pulls the planets close to it. Maybe the sun could pull the planets too close, but the planets' inertia prevents this from happening. Inertia means a force that keeps an object moving in an unchanged path or straight line. So while the sun is pulling the planets closer, the planets are moving forward in a straight line. When the forces of gravity and inertia are the same strength, this causes the planets to move in a circular motion, never stop. This
