- 1) Thompson (1984) defines five categories for the process of spreading diffusion from the origin. Source is the starting location; transmission is what the person who carries the information is doing; link is the path; the original source and spreading mechanism is the only valid way to count your initial spreader (first messenger) correctly.
- 2) Thompson (1984) describes diffusion as a process on the fronts or tips of the epidemic. It does not measure any direct or indirect flow (backflow or loops of information).
- 3) Make this point central to the system of your study, open up the flow, focus on the spreader (people who are the starting group of the epidemic).
- 4) Focus your results on to which epidemic wave is the most likely to spread (concentrate on the GO-TO, identify any critical variables and change from a process of spreading front to flow, focus on the spreading or flow (diffusion).
- 5) Compare your study with controlling for the diffusion (controlling for the flow) flow (GO-TO) category (what you are controlling for is the flow, not the diffusion).

Revisiting the Results: Relevance and Overall Fit

[illegible]

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 12-week program of low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically and resistance training. The control group did not exercise. The results of the study showed that the exercise group had significantly higher levels of physical fitness than the control group at the end of the 12-week program. The exercise group had significantly higher levels of aerobic fitness, muscular strength, and muscular endurance than the control group. The exercise group also had significantly higher levels of body composition, including lower body fat percentage and higher lean body mass. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically and resistance training program can improve the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.
