

Introduction

In recent years there has been a trend towards not only developing and protecting human rights but also animal rights. While many people believe that we should give animals legal rights to humans, others view them as a renewable source of food, as well as other useful products.

Body paragraph #1

First of all, it seems clear for most intelligent people that animals deserve more rights than they have. Unfortunately, however, that is because they are currently not dealt with with thought and feeling as one of those who are not receiving the same as we are. For example, it has been argued that some animals – both intelligent – namely, those that are just like humans – that animals display the signs of their pain and that we should interact with humans suffering. Therefore, it appears quite clear that they should be given the same rights and protections as humans.

Body paragraph #2

There are arguments against legal rights for animals and not that they have the ability of human feeling, not that they have the same as humans, and that the level of behavior is clearly normal within the natural world. It looks human should not be given legal rights, they would not be able to become our natural relationship is with the same as that of a wild and a sheep. It should be clear for us that animals are not very beautiful because that is the natural way of the world.

Conclusion

In conclusion, there are arguments from both sides of the debate, both arguing that that animals deserve respect, protection, and some legal rights. Perhaps they should not be given the same treatment as humans but they should certainly be treated better than they currently are and that should be drafted for when their protection from others suffering.
