Life Science Practical November 2013 Caps:

Democracy, Elections, and Constitutionalism in Africa Charles M. Fombad, Nico Steytler, 2021-03-18 The third wave of democracy that reached African shores at the end of the Cold War brought with it a dramatic decline from 1990 onwards in dictatorships military regimes one party governments and presidents for life Multiparty democracy was at the core of the constitutional revolutions that swept through most of Africa in those watershed years However that wave is either losing momentum or receding or being reversed in its entirety This volume examines democracy and elections in Africa a focus motivated by two concerns First after 30 years it is important to take stock of the state of constitutional democracy on the continent The democratic gains of the 1990s and 2000s seem to be falling by the wayside with the evidence mounting that regimes are concealing authoritarianism under the veneer of elections doing so in an international context where populist regimes are on the rise and free and fair multiparty elections are consequently no longer a given It is becoming a battle to protect and retain constitutional democracy The second reason for this volume s focus on democracy and elections is that multiparty democracy is essential for the proper functioning of the state in addressing the major problems facing Africa internal conflict inequality and lack of development and poor governance and corruption The focus of this volume is thus on how competitive politics or multiparty democracy can be realized and how through competition such politics could lead to better policy and practice outcomes

Interactions: Plant Productivity, Resilience and Community Dynamics Ivan Hiltbold, Michael Rostás, 2017-10-13
Natural and anthropogenic grasslands such as prairies meadows rangelands and pastures cover more than 40% of the planet's surface and provide a wealth of ecological services Grasslands alone store one third of the global carbon stocks and grass roots through their specific architectures ensure water cycling and prevent the erosion of fertile topsoil In addition grasslands are of vital importance for human food production as vast areas of rangelands and pastures provide feed for livestock Pastoral legumes mobilize atmospheric nitrogen and improve fertility of arable soils Not least grasslands are an essential genetic resource The three major crop species that feed half of the global population have been bred from wild grasses Ancestors of our contemporary turf cultivars common components of urban landscapes and recreation spaces originated from wild grasslands Although natural and managed grasslands represent pivotal ecosystems many aspects of how they function are poorly understood To date most attention has focused on grassland primary producers i.e. forage plants and mammalian grazers but invertebrates are likely to play an equally if not more important role in grassland ecosystem functioning In Australian pastures for example the biomass of root feeding scarab beetles can often exceed that of sheep and plant damage caused by invertebrates is sometimes equivalent to an average dairy cow's grass consumption Indeed grasslands are one of the most densely populated ecosystems with invertebrates being probably the most important engineers that shape both plant communities and the grassland as a whole In a rapidly changing world with increasing anthropogenic pressure on grasslands this Research Topic focuses on 1 How grassland habitats shape invertebrate biodiversity 2 Impacts of climate change on grassland invertebrate interactions 3 Plant and invertebrate pest monitoring and management 4 Plant mediated multitrophic interactions and biological control in grasslands 5 Land use and grassland invertebrates 6 Plant resistance to invertebrate pests Given the increasing demand for food and land for human habitation unprecedented threats to grasslands are anticipated Resilient to some extent these key ecosystems need to be better comprehended to guarantee their sustainable management and ecosystem services Wind Energy for Power Generation K. R. Rao, 2019-10-17 This far reaching resource covers a full spectrum of multi faceted considerations critical for energy generation decision makers considering the adoption or expansion of wind power facilities It contextualizes pivotal technical information within the real complexities of economic environmental practical and socio economic parameters This matrix of coverage includes case studies and analysis from developed and developing regions including North America and Europe Asia Latin America the Middle East and Africa Crucial issues to power generation professionals and utilities such as capacity credits fuel saving intermittency penetration limits relative cost of electricity by generation source growth and cost trends incentives and wind integration issues are addressed Other economic issues succinctly discussed inform financial commitment to a project including investment matrices strategies for economic evaluations econometrics of wind energy cost comparisons of various investment strategies and cost comparisons with other energy sources Due to its encompassing scope this reference will be of distinct interest to practicing engineers policy and decision makers project planners investors and students working in the area of wind energy for power generation Engaging in Social Partnerships Novella Zett Keith,2015-02-11 Engaging in Social Partnerships helps practitioners advance democratic engagement by creating spaces where institutions of higher education community groups and other organizations can come together This important book prepares higher education professionals to become reflective practitioners while working in collaborations that span not only the boundaries of organizations but also borders created by the social divides of class race ethnicity culture professional expertise and power Through illustrative cases Keith explores effective models of democratic engagement for university community partnerships as well as approaches to overcoming obstacles and assessing process and outcome Current and future professionals in higher education will find this a valuable resource as they explore the power of engaging in collaborations that cross social divides while enacting practices that are more equitable and democratic Memory and Technology Jason R. Finley, Farah Naaz, Francine W. hazelnuts and sloes and home to oak and ash field mice and butterflies But as much as we might dream about foraging for mushrooms or collecting wayside nettles for soup most of us are unaware of quite how profoundly hedgerows have shaped the history of our landscape and our fellow species One of Britain's best known naturalists John Wright introduces us to the natural and cultural history of hedges as well as ditches dykes and dry stone walls from the arrival of the first settlers in the British Isles to the modern day when we have finally begun to recognise the importance of these unique ecosystems His intimate knowledge of the countryside and its inhabitants brings this guide to life whether discussing the skills and craft of hedge maintenance or the rich variety of animals plants algae and fungi who call them home Informative practical entertaining and richly illustrated in colour throughout A Natural History of the Hedgerow is a book to stuff into your pocket for country walks in every season or to savour in winter before a roaring fire

Ghosts and Things Aviva Briefel, 2025-04-15

Ghosts and Things argues that Victorians turned to the dead to understand the material culture of their present With the rise of spiritualism in Britain in the early 1850s sances invited participants to contact ghosts using material things from ordinary household furniture to specialized technologies invented to register the presence of spirits In its supernatural object lessons Victorian spiritualism was not just a mystical movement centered on the dead but also a practical resource for learning how to negotiate the uncanniness of life under capitalism Aviva Briefel explores how spiritualism compelled sance participants to speculate on the manufacture of spectral clothing ponder the hidden histories and energies of parlor furniture confront the humiliations of consumerism as summoned spirits pelted them with exotic fruits and comprehend modes of mechanical reproduction like photography and electrotyping that had the power to shape identities Briefel argues that spiritualist practices and the objects they employed offered both believers and skeptics unexpected frameworks for grappling with the often invisible forces of labor consumption exploitation and exchange that haunted their everyday lives Ghosts and Things reveals how spiritualism's explorations of the borderland between life and death matter and spirit produced a strange and seductive combination of wonder and discomfort that allowed participants to experience the possibilities and precarities of industrial modernity in novel ways
