

Chapter 1

Accounting in Business

QUESTIONS

1. The purpose of accounting is to provide decision makers with relevant and reliable information to help them make better decisions. Examples include information for people making investments, loans, and business plans.
2. Technology reduces the time, effort, and cost of recordkeeping. There is still a demand for people who can design accounting systems, supervise their operation, analyze complex transactions, and interpret reports. Demand also exists for people who can effectively use computers to prepare and analyze accounting reports. Technology will never substitute for qualified people with abilities to prepare, use, analyze, and interpret accounting information.
3. External users and their uses of accounting information include: (a) lenders, to measure the risk and return of loans; (b) shareholders, to assess whether to buy, sell, or hold their shares; (c) directors, to oversee the organization; (d) employees and labor unions, to judge the fairness of wages and assess future employment opportunities; and (e) regulators, to determine whether the organization is complying with regulations. Other users are voters, legislators, government officials, contributors to nonprofits, suppliers, and customers.
4. Business owners and managers use accounting information to help answer questions such as: What resources does an organization own? What debts are owed? How much income is earned? Are expenses reasonable for the level of sales? Are customers' accounts being promptly collected?
5. Service businesses include: Standard and Poor's, Dun & Bradstreet, Merrill Lynch, Southwest Airlines, CitiCorp, Humana, Charles Schwab, and Prudential. Businesses offering products include Nike, Reebok, Gap, Apple, Ford Motor Co., Philip Morris, Coca-Cola, Best Buy, and WalMart.
6. The internal role of accounting is to serve the organization's internal operating functions. It does this by providing useful information for internal users in completing their tasks more effectively and efficiently. By providing this information, accounting helps the organization reach its overall goals.
7. Accounting professionals offer many services including auditing, management advice, tax planning, business valuation, and money management.
8. Marketing managers are likely interested in information such as sales volume, advertising costs, promotion costs, salaries of sales personnel, and sales commissions.

The Subprime Crisis and Its Impact on Financial and Managerial Environments Elisabeth Paulet, 2013-01-04 History has shown us the role that financial and banking crises have had in economic transformation The last crisis in 2008 was particularly significant because of its extent and its effect worldwide Two aspects hold equal importance Firstly governance is a key concept to be clearly defined and enforced especially within the EU Both entrepreneurial and financial players must measure the impact of their various actions transparency in decision making processes strategic choices to achieve profit etc maintaining their market position while preserving the social positioning of all partners Secondly from a more technical point of view the relevance of mathematical and quantitative methods should be discussed in order to evaluate asset performance Securitization has always been a tool used to increase financial institutions profit margins but it cannot become their primary goal The error does not come from the use of this technique but from its misuse at international level This book aims to provide the reader with a broad discussion of the financial impacts and consequences arising from the last subprime crisis By means of an international and European analysis the different contributors intend to stress the relevance of a multi national solution guaranteeing the stability of the international financial and banking system
