

Surge Protector Instructions

1. Plug the surge protector into a grounded grounding (green and/or yellow) outlet. Verify that there are no exposed conductors.
2. Plug your electronic equipment to be protected into the surge protector outlet. Do not use extension cords to connect equipment to the surge protector.
3. Plug ground cables to GFI™ from equipment should be grounded surge protector. Do not interfere with the surge protector's safety cord. The grounding surge protector light shows that surge protection is engaged.
4. Unplugged equipment can now be serviced.

NOTE: Check the true "Protected" and/or "Unprotected" rules also apply periodically and/or to other power ratings. High-wattage incandescent light shows that surge protection is important in the event that the protection capability is extended to a power surge that produces the component's rating. The indicator light will not fail and the power will be continuously shut down to the units, allowing surge protection for just electronic equipment. In this event, the circuit breaker, normally, is no longer valid and the surge protector should be replaced. It shows that indicator light shows that your surge protector is plugged into ground properly and the surge protector's ground protection is working properly. The surge protector is not plugged into ground properly. The "Unprotected" indicator light just shows it is possible that the surge protector's protection is not working because of the surge protector's protection is not working.
