Love, Money, and Parenting Matthias Doepke, Fabrizio Zilibotti, 2020-11-03 Doepke and Zilibotti investigate how economic forces shape how parents raise their children They show that in countries with increasing economic inequality such as the United States parents push harder to ensure their children have a path to security and success Economics has transformed the hands off parenting of the 1960s and 70s into a frantic overscheduled activity Growing inequality has also resulted in an increasing parenting gap between richer and poorer families raising the disturbing prospect of diminished social mobility and fewer opportunities for children from disadvantaged backgrounds The authors discuss how investments in early childhood development and the design of education systems factor into the parenting equation and how economics can help shape policies that will contribute to the ideal of equal opportunity for all From publisher description

Altmetrics for Information Professionals Kim Johan Holmberg, 2015-09-03 The goal of any research assessment is to evaluate the value or quality of the research in comparison to other research As quality is highly subjective and difficult to measure citations are used as a proxy Citations are an important part of scholarly communication and a significant component of research evaluation with the assumption being that highly cited work has influenced the work of many other researchers and hence it is more valuable Recently we have seen new online data sources being researched for this purpose and disruptive ideas with the power to change research assessment and perhaps even science as a whole have been born Altmetrics is the new research area that investigates the potential of these new data source as indicators of the impact that research has made on the scientific community and beyond and thus possibly also as indicators of the societal impact of research This book will present some of these new data sources findings from earlier altmetrics research and the disruptive ideas that may radically change scholarly communication Presents some of the key ideas and innovations in earlier research that have been driving the evolution from bibliometrics to webometrics and with the advent of social media to altmetrics Discusses the shortcomings and pitfalls of bibliometrics in research evaluation and the potential of altmetrics to overcome some of these shortcomings Presents some of the most important data sources of altmetrics the aggregators and the different stakeholders Reviews current research about altmetrics and discusses possible future trends Presents a way to measure and aggregate altmetrics according to the level of impact or type of impact they represent

Incomplete Streets Stephen Zavestoski, Julian Agyeman, 2014-08-27 The Complete Streets concept and movement in urban planning and policy has been hailed by many as a revolution that aims to challenge the auto normative paradigm by reversing the broader effects of an urban form shaped by the logic of keeping automobiles moving By enabling safe access for all users Complete Streets promise to make cities more walkable and livable and at the same time more sustainable This book problematizes the Complete Streets concept by suggesting that streets should not be thought of as merely physical spaces but as symbolic and social spaces When important social and symbolic narratives are missing from the discourse and practice of Complete Streets what actually results are incomplete streets The volume questions whether the ways in which complete streets narratives policies plans and efforts are envisioned and implemented might be systematically reproducing many of the urban spatial and social inequalities and injustices that have characterized cities for the last century or more From critiques of a mobility bias rooted in the neoliberal foundations of the Complete Streets concept to concerns about resulting environmental gentrification the chapters in Incomplete Streets variously call for planning processes that give voice to the historically marginalized and more broadly that approach streets as dynamic fluid and public social places This interdisciplinary book is aimed at students researchers and professionals in the fields of urban geography environmental studies urban planning and policy transportation planning and urban sociology In The Post-Urban World Tigran Haas,Hans Westlund,2017-10-16 Winner of the Regional Studies Association s Best Book Award 2018 In the last few decades many global cities and towns have experienced unprecedented economic social and spatial structural change Today we find ourselves at the juncture between entering a post urban and a post political world both presenting new challenges to our metropolitan regions municipalities and cities Many megacities declining regions and towns are experiencing an increase in the number of complex problems regarding internal relationships governance and external connections In particular a growing disparity exists between citizens that are socially excluded within declining physical and economic realms and those situated in thriving geographic areas This book conveys how forces of structural change shape the urban landscape In The Post Urban World is divided into three main sections Spatial Transformations and the New Geography of Cities and Regions Urbanization Knowledge Economies and Social Structuration and New Cultures in a Post Political and Post Resilient World One important subject covered in this book in addition to the spatial and economic forces that shape our regions cities and neighbourhoods is the social cultural ecological and psychological aspects which are also critically involved Additionally the urban transformation occurring throughout cities is thoroughly discussed Written by today s leading experts in urban studies this book discusses subjects from different theoretical standpoints as well as various methodological approaches and perspectives this is alongside the challenges and new solutions for cities and regions in an interconnected world of global economies This book is aimed at both academic researchers interested in regional development economic geography and urban studies as well as practitioners and policy makers in urban development
