Since the turn of the 1990s many international development and policy making organisations have perceived the tourism industry with its local and regional connections as a high potential tool for putting sustainable development into practice. The capacity of tourism to work for sustainable development was highlighted in relation to the United Nations SDGs which were adopted in 2015. The SDGs define the agenda for global development to 2030 by addressing pertinent challenges such as poverty, inequality, climate change, environmental degradation and peace and justice. Tourism geographers and allied disciplines have held strong and long term interest in sustainability issues and their chapters in this collection contribute significantly to this emerging and highly policy relevant research field.
