Decolonization and Conflict Martin Thomas, Gareth Curless, 2017-06-15 Insurgency based irregular warfare typifies armed conflict in the post Cold War age. For some years now western and other governments have struggled to contend with ideologically driven guerrilla movements, religiously inspired militias and systematic targeting of civilian populations. Numerous conflicts of this type are rooted in experiences of empire breakdown. Yet few multi empire studies of decolonisation's violence exist. Decolonization and Conflict brings together expertise on a variety of different cases to offer new perspectives on the colonial conflicts that engulfed Europe's empires after 1945. The contributors analyse multiple forms of colonial counter insurgency from the military engagement of anti colonial movements to the forced removal of civilian populations and the application of new doctrines of psychological warfare. Contributors to the collection also show how insurgencies, their propaganda and methods of action were inherently transnational and inter connected. The resulting study is a vital contribution to our understanding of contested decolonization. It emphasises the global connections at work and reveals the contemporary resonances of both anti colonial insurgencies and the means devised to counter them. It is essential reading for students and scholars of empire, decolonization and asymmetric warfare.

The Urban Political Theresa Enright, Ugo Rossi, 2017-11-01 This book examines the political and economic trajectories of cities following the 2008 financial crisis. The authors claim that in this era which they dub late neoliberalism, urban spaces, institutions, subjectivities and organizational forms are undergoing processes of radical transformation and recomposition. The volume deftly argues that the urban political horizon of late neoliberalism is ambivalent, marked by many progressive mobilizations for equality and justice but also by regressive forces of austerity, exploitation and domination.

Taken For A Ride Matteo Rizzo, 2017-05-19 How does public transport work in an African city under neoliberalism? Who owns what in it? Who has the power to influence its shape and changes in it over time? What does it mean to be a precarious and informal worker in the private minibuses that provide public transport in Dar es Salaam? These are the main questions that inform this in depth case study of Dar es Salaam's public transport system over more than forty years. The growth of cities and informal economies are two central manifestations of globalization in the developing world. Taken for a Ride addresses both, drawing on long term fieldwork in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania and charting its public transport system's journey from public to private provision. This new addition to the Critical Frontiers of Theory Research and Practice in International Development Studies series investigates this shift alongside the increasing deregulation of the sector and the resulting chaotic modality of public transport It reviews state attempts to regain control over public transport and documents how informal wage relations prevailed in the sector The changing political attitude of workers towards employers and the state is investigated from an initial incapacity to respond to exploitation to the political organisation and unionisation which won workers concessions on labour rights A longitudinal study of workers throws light on patterns of occupational mobility in the sector and the political and economic interests that shaped the introduction of Bus Rapid Transit in Dar es Salaam and local resistance to it are analysed Taken for a Ride reveals the political economy of public transport exposing the limitations of market fundamentalist and post colonial scholarship on economic informality the urban experience in developing countries and the failure to locate the agency of the urban poor within their economic and political structures It is both a contribution and a call for the contextualised study of actually existing neoliberalism States of Fragility 2016 Understanding Violence OECD,2016-11-30 The world is getting more violent and violence is occurring in surprising places Over the past 15 years 3 34 billion people or almost half of the world s population have been affected by violence The number of violent conflicts is decreasing but conflicts are killing more people
