Transparency in Assessment - Exploring the Influence of Explicit Assessment Criteria Anders Jönsson,Frans Prins,2019-04-03 In many schools and higher education institutions it has become common practice to share assessment criteria with students Sometimes it is required for accountability purposes at other times criteria are used as a means to communicate expectations to students However the idea that explicit assessment criteria should be shared with students has been contested On the one hand research has shown that explicit criteria may positively affect student performance reduce their anxiety as well as support students use of self regulated learning strategies On the other hand there are fears that explicit criteria may have a restraining influence on students learning as well as limiting their autonomy and creativity There are also indications of students becoming more performance oriented as opposed to learning oriented when being provided with explicit assessment criteria Taken together it is not fully understood under which circumstances it is productive for student learning to share explicit assessment criteria and under which circumstances it is not In particular empirical research on the proposed negative effects of sharing criteria with learners is limited and most fears voiced in the literature are based on individual experiences and anecdotal evidence In this book we therefore bring different perspectives on transparency in assessment together in order to further our understanding of how students are influenced by the use of explicit assessment criteria A deeper understanding of the influence of explicit assessment criteria on students understanding of criteria motivation and learning is equally imperative for future research and educational practice both of which need to go beyond individual opinions and convictions

Student-Led Assessment Starr Sackstein, 2024-01-03 The single greatest authority on student learning is the student doing the learning but the right structures must be in place for students voices to be clearly heard and truly valued Conventional formative and summative assessment are most often conducted through one size fits all quizzes and tests that yield narrow predetermined categories of data about students academic progress But if we want a truly accurate look at what how and to what extent students are learning who better to consult than the obvious experts on the matter the students themselves In this lively and comprehensive guide veteran teacher and author Starr Sackstein provides the tools needed to help students compile and present evidence of learning through portfolios and student led conferences from templates and rubrics to personal testimonials reflection questions and activities The book features Forms applicable across grade levels and content areas for unpacking standards co constructing success criteria with students evaluating current classroom practices and more Real life perspectives and scenarios from educators in the field who have embraced portfolios and student led conferences over standardized tests and letter grades Practical experience based guidance for building classroom and schoolwide learning cultures that promote both learner agency and academic achievement The resources recommendations and reflections in Student Led Assessment allow educators at all levels to develop systems and protocols for ensuring student ownership of and pride in their own hard won achievement
