S. Ransick, 2015-12-16 Museums and historic sites faced with small budgets and staff can find it intimidating to redesign or create a website from scratch Concerns over resources make coding and designing or hiring someone to do so daunting and expensive It does not have to be so Content creation is inescapable when making a website but designing and constructing a unique website can be as simple as taking an afternoon to use a color chart to pick a color scheme and paste in text from a Word document All of the tools discussed in the book are free at the base level and some offer upgrade packages with even more features The advice and techniques are all created with an eye to making websites work for smaller institutions with limited budgets and timeframes Every museum professional has come across issues when adapting general software for an institution's specific needs and the information in this book will anticipate some of these needs by offering easy-to-implement workarounds and information on related software or services that integrate with each website Features include How-to guides for Wix Weebly WordPress and Google Sites Detailed comparisons of WYSIWYG What You See Is What You Get editors by cost features and ease of use so that you can easily identify which platforms meet your needs Mythbusting of common website and computer assumptions Step-by-step content and design planning guide Basic HTML coding tricks and tips for the slightly more advanced users or those who want to become so A free companion Web site includes links to online resources ongoing updates to this book to keep it current and links to other free online tools and software Go to <https://freethemuseum.wixsite.com/aaslh> to request access on this author created and managed companion site Leveraging the ePortfolio for Integrative Learning Candyce Reynolds, Judith Patton, 2023-07-03 The fruit of the authors more than 15 years of using and writing about ePortfolios in general education and disciplinary programs and courses this book is a comprehensive and practical guide to the use of the ePortfolio as a pedagogy that facilitates the integrative learning that is a central goal of higher education Faculty and administrators of programs using ePortfolios can use this guide to help their students work individually on an ePortfolio or as part of a class or program requirement Readers will discover through examples of student portfolios and targeted exercises how to assist students in making their learning visible to themselves their peers their instructors and their future employers While interest in ePortfolios has exploded because they provide an easier and more comprehensive ways to assess student learning than traditional portfolios and because they have the potential to transformatively develop students ability to connect and apply their knowledge faculty and administrators all too often are disappointed by the lackluster ePortfolios that students submit

Reynolds and Patton demonstrate how systematically embedding practices in the classroom that engage students in integrative learning practices dramatically improves outcomes. The authors describe easy to use and practical strategies for faculty to incorporate integrative ePortfolios in their courses and curricula and create the scaffolding to develop students skills and metacognition. The book opens by outlining the underlying learning theory and the key concepts of integrative learning and by describing the purpose, structure and implementation of ePortfolios. Subsequent sections cover classroom practices and assignments to help students understand themselves as learners, make connections between course content, their personal lives and to the curriculum, bridge theory to practice and consider issues of audience and communication and presentation in developing their portfolios. The book goes on to cover technological issues and assessment with a particular emphasis on the use of rubrics and concludes with explicated examples of ePortfolios created in a first year program.

ePortfolios created by graduating students, career oriented ePortfolios and lifelong ePortfolios. For both experienced faculty and administrators and readers just beginning to use ePortfolios, this book provides a framework and guidance to implement them to their fullest potential. The Art of SEO Eric Enge, Stephan Spencer, Jessie Stricchiola, 2023-08-30
