Fragmenting Globalization Ka Zeng,Xiaojun Li,2021-03-15 Global supply chain integration is not only a rapidly growing feature of international trade it is responsible for fundamentally changing trade policy at international and domestic levels Given that final goods are produced with both domestic and foreign suppliers Ka Zeng and Xiaojun Li argue that global supply chain integration pits firms and industries that are more heavily dependent on foreign supply chains against those that are less dependent on intermediate goods for domestic production Hence businesses whose supply chain would be disrupted as a result of increased trade barriers should lobby for preferential trade liberalization to maintain access to those foreign markets Moreover businesses whose products are used in the production of goods in foreign countries should also support preferential trade liberalization to compete with suppliers from other parts of the world Fragmenting Globalization uses multiple methods including time series cross sectional analysis of the pattern of Preferential Trade Alliance formation by existing World Trade Organization members a firm level survey and case studies of the pattern of corporate support for regional trade liberalization in both China and the United States Zeng and Li show that the growing fragmentation of global production trade and investment is altering trade policy away from the traditional divide between export oriented and import competing industries
