1. When replacing a filament in the instrument, all the filament winding must be replaced by a new lot of wire, such as pure tungsten, tungsten-rhenium, tungsten-coated tungsten, thoriated tungsten, etc.
2. The new lot of filament must have the original diameter. Even replacement cannot be done if a filament is broken, and then it is a lot of waste money.
3. Always use the manufacturer's recommended components. Especially important components as mentioned in the above steps should not be replaced by other manufacturers'. Furthermore, there is a filament that is mounted, making these components the internal structure of processing.
4. Before replacing an instrument in the instrument, the original position of each electrode and the wire in its holder must be completely safe, in particular, the original shape of the electrode must be kept, and it is not that the protective device must be lost; then the components in the instrument must be replaced in the instrument's original state. Therefore, the following steps should be performed for the correct installation of the instrument and test it.
