Artificial Intelligence for Financial Markets Thomas Barrau,Raphael Douady,2022-05-31 This book introduces the novel artificial intelligence technique of polymodels and applies it to the prediction of stock returns The idea of polymodels is to describe a system by its sensitivities to an environment and to monitor it imitating what a natural brain does spontaneously In practice this involves running a collection of non linear univariate models This very powerful standalone technique has several advantages over traditional multivariate regressions With its easy to interpret results this method provides an ideal preliminary step towards the traditional neural network approach The first two chapters compare the technique with other regression alternatives and introduces an estimation method which regularizes a polynomial regression using cross validation The rest of the book applies these ideas to financial markets Certain equity return components are predicted using polymodels in very different ways and a genetic algorithm is described which combines these different predictions into a single portfolio aiming to optimize the portfolio returns net of transaction costs Addressed to investors at all levels of experience this book will also be of interest to both seasoned and non seasoned statisticians Data for DoD

Manpower Policy Analysis Jacob Alex Klerman,2009 To allow analyses of its personnel practices the Department of Defense maintains historical administrative data files and administers surveys of military personnel Military manpower analyses also make use of civilian cross sectional and longitudinal data Klerman provides an overview of these data sources and discusses how they can be analyzed with currently underutilized data matching strategies These data matching strategies involve matching DoD administrative data files to 1 civilian administrative data such as Social Security Administration earnings data 2 DoD survey data and 3 civilian survey data These strategies have the potential for large payoffs in terms of better analysis and therefore better policy for DoD Klerman also discusses the degree to which DoD should help fund a future National Longitudinal Study of Youth and whether DoD should initiate a new military panel survey

Data for DoD Manpower Policy Analysis maintains that the research questions that these proposed surveys would help answer can instead be explored through data matching. Moreover streamlining procedures for data matching that is making it easier for researchers to analyze the data DoD already has is likely to be much less expensive than engaging in major new data collection efforts.
