Families Jennifer Natalya Fink, 2022-03-22 A provocation to reclaim our disability lineage in order to profoundly reimagine the possibilities for our relationship to disability kinship and carework Disability is often described as a tragedy a crisis or an aberration though 1 in 5 people worldwide have a disability Why is this common human experience rendered exceptional In All Our Families disability studies scholar Jennifer Natalya Fink argues that this originates in our families When we cut a disabled member out of the family story disability remains a trauma as opposed to a shared and ordinary experience This makes disability and its diagnosis traumatic and exceptional Weaving together stories of members of her own family with sociohistorical research Fink illustrates how the eradication of disabled people from family narratives is rooted in racist misogynistic and antisemitic sorting systems inherited from Nazis By examining the rhetoric of genetic testing she shows that a fear of disability begins before a child is even born and that a fear of disability is fundamentally a fear of care Fink analyzes our racist and sexist care systems exposing their inequities as a source of stigmatizing ableism Inspired by queer and critical race theory Fink calls for a lineage of disability a reclamation of disability as a history a culture and an identity Such a lineage offers a means of seeing disability in the context of a collective sense of belonging as cause for celebration and is a call for a radical reimagining of carework and kinship All Our Families challenges us to re lineate disability within the family as a means of repair toward a more inclusive and flexible structure of care and community      Library World

English Mechanic and Mirror of Science ,1876      Genomic, Proteomics, and Biotechnology RC Sobti, Manishi Mukesh, Aastha Sobti, 2022-12-29 High throughput molecular technologies omics can help to decipher the contributions of different physiological systems and identify candidate molecules that are representative of different physiological pathways thereby allowing the discovery of biomarkers Notably the omics technologies along with and computational methods bioprospecting and artificial intelligence will continue to lead to better understanding of biological mechanisms that are responsible for physical attributes or phenotypes Research breakthroughs obtained through these technologies can be used to enhance productivity of food animals meet the increasing demand for animal sourced foods enhance high quality nutrient availability ensure nutrient safety mitigate the effects of climate variability and result in new technologies that provide continued improvement in food security worldwide Such breakthroughs are an urgent necessity because over the past 50 years there has been an unprecedented increase in the world s population which will reach ten billion by the year 2050

Innovative and technological advancements that enhance all aspects of food production will arise from basic fundamental research. Besides food, animals by products have found many applications in the fields of pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, and household and industrial products. Hence the need to ameliorate the productivity, reproductivity, growth, performance, and disease resistance in animals has created a worldwide interest in gaining a deeper understanding of animal biology, biotechnology, and genomics and proteomics. The present volume thoroughly discusses the omics studies in domestic and non-domestic animals and their role in mitigation of various challenges ahead. The volume thus focuses on: i) Omics: genomics, proteomics, transcriptomics, metabolonomics; technologies in identifying/characterizing biodiversity; ii) Role of molecular techniques for improvement of domestic and non-domestic organisms; iii) Animal and alternative model systems using stem cells, tissue engineering, cell-free systems, 3D platforms etc. for studying life phenomena; iv) Genetically modified organisms as factories for the products. Chemical agriculture and pollinators: signs of a Planet in danger Giuseppe Zicari, 2023-02-24. Bees that have inhabited the Planet for over 100 million years are the common thread that tells the story of various ecological challenges such as the reduction of biodiversity, climate change, soil degradation, and energy transition. Paradoxically, agriculture is one of the major causes of irreversible and therefore unsustainable changes such as global warming and the extinction of pollinators from which it derives its benefits and wealth. The massive use of fossil fuels, the distribution of poisons such as pesticides, persistent toxic, and bioaccumulative, the loss of fertility in monocultures of plants selected to satisfy economic needs are some of the main causes of an ecologically unsustainable food production system. The book tries to show a different vision of the World we are building: a story of backstories and underestimated dangers. This book received two prizes: Steli di Pace Stems of Peace by the Union of European Journalists and Communicators in 2023 and it was the winner of the Concorso Nazionale per la divulgazione scientifica Kerit LC Edizioni National Competition for science dissemination in 2024. Introduction to Molecular Biology Mr. Rohit
