Seven Myths About Education Daisy Christodoulou, 2014-03-14 In this controversial new book Daisy Christodoulou offers a thought provoking critique of educational orthodoxy Drawing on her recent experience of teaching in challenging schools she shows through a wide range of examples and case studies just how much classroom practice contradicts basic scientific principles She examines seven widely held beliefs which are holding back pupils and teachers Facts prevent understanding Teacher led instruction is passive The 21st century fundamentally changes everything You can always just look it up We should teach transferable skills Projects and activities are the best way to learn Teaching knowledge is indoctrination In each accessible and engaging chapter Christodoulou sets out the theory of each myth considers its practical implications and shows the worrying prevalence of such practice Then she explains exactly why it is a myth with reference to the principles of modern cognitive science She builds a powerful case explaining how governments and educational organisations around the world have let down teachers and pupils by promoting and even mandating evidence less theory and bad practice This blisteringly incisive and urgent text is essential reading for all teachers teacher training students policy makers head teachers researchers and academics around the world House of Commons - Culture, Media and Sport Committee: Supporting The Creative Economy - Volume I: HC 674 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Culture, Media and Sport Committee, 2013-09-26 This report warns that the extraordinary success of the UK's creative industries may be jeopardised by any dilution of intellectual property rights and the failure to tackle online piracy The Committee also strongly condemns the failure of Google in particular to tackle access of copyright infringing websites through its search engine Such illegal piracy combined with proposals arising from the Hargreaves review to introduce copyright exceptions and a failure to strengthen copyright enforcement as envisaged by the Digital Economy Act 2010 together threaten the livelihoods of the individuals and industries that contribute over 36 billion annually to the UK economy Also the Olympics No Marketing Rights scheme is excessively restrictive and is preventing British creative companies from realising the benefits they deserve from the Olympic legacy The Committee calls for a central champion of Intellectual Property in Government to promote and protect the interests of UK intellectual property the maximum penalty for serious online IP theft to be increased to 10 years imprisonment in line with the punishment for such offences in the physical world more evidence and scrutiny before any exceptions to copyright such as those suggested by Hargreaves are applied redoubled efforts to ensure that the video games tax credit is approved by the European Commission and introduced as soon as possible reforms to the income tax and tax reliefs systems to recognise adequately the freelance nature of much creative work greater recognition of the importance of arts subjects in the curriculum

Educational Research for Social Justice Alistair Ross, 2021-06-22 This book presents a series of analyses of educational policies largely in the UK but some also in Europe researched by a team of social scientists who share a commitment to social justice and equity in education We explore what social justice means in educational policy and practice and how it impacts on our understanding of both educational science and the public good Using a social constructivist approach the book argues that social justice requires a particular and critical analysis of the meaning of meritocracy and of the way this term turns educational policies towards treating learning as a competition in which many young people are constructed as losers We discuss how many terms in education are essentialised and have specific and different meanings for particular social groups and how this may create issues in both quantitative survey methods and in determining what is the public good We discuss social justice across a range of intersecting social characteristics including social class ethnicity and gender as they are applied across the educational policy spectrum from early years to postgraduate education We examine the ways that young people construct their identities and the implications of this for understanding the public good in educational practice We consider the responsibilities of educational researchers to acknowledge these issues and offer examples of researching with such a commitment We conclude by considering how educational policy might contribute to a socially just equitable and inclusive public good
