Human Rights Development Report:

China's Road to Human Rights Development Huawen Liu, 2023-06-13 This book describes the development of human rights in the People's Republic of China since 1949. In particular, since the reform and opening up, China has deepened its understanding of the rule of law and human rights and realized the incorporation of human rights into the Constitution. The cause of human rights in China has entered a period of rapid development in a planned and step-by-step manner, and a path of human rights development suited to China's national conditions has been set out. China's international exchanges and cooperation in the field of human rights have gradually deepened and strengthened, and China has made unique contributions, becoming a participant builder and contributor to international human rights governance. Human Rights Indicators in Development Siobhan McInerney-Lankford, Hans-Otto Sano, 2010-10-26 Human rights indicators are central to the application of human rights standards in context and relate essentially to measuring human rights realization both qualitatively and quantitatively. They offer an empirical or evidence-based dimension to the normative content of human rights legal obligations and provide means of connecting those obligations with empirical data and evidence, and in this way relate to human rights accountability and the enforcement of human rights obligations. Human rights indicators are important both for assessment and diagnostic purposes: the assessment function of human rights indicators relates to their use in monitoring accountability effectiveness and impact, while the diagnostic purposes relate to measuring the current state of human rights implementation and enjoyment in a given context, whether regional, country-specific or local. This paper offers a preliminary review of the foregoing in the development context and a general perspective on the significance of human rights indicators for development processes and outcomes. It is not intended to be prescriptive and does not provide specific operational recommendations on the use of human rights indicators in development projects. Nor does it advocate a particular approach or mode of integrating human rights in development or argue for a rights-based approach to development. This paper is designed to provide development practitioners with a preliminary view on the possible relevance, design and use of human rights indicators in development policy and practice. It also introduces a basic conceptual framework about the relationship between rights and development, including in the World Bank context, and surveys a range of methodological approaches on human rights measurement, exploring in general terms different types of human rights indicators and their potential implications for development at three different levels of convergence or integration. Human Rights of Minority and Women's: Women and human rights development Indrani Sen Gupta, Human Rights, Export Credits and Development Cooperation Barbara Linder, 2019-12-27 This book analyses to what extent the current human rights system allows affected individuals to claim accountability for human rights violations resulting from bilateral development and export credit agency supported undertakings. The author explores three legal pathways: host state responsibility, home state responsibility and corporate responsibility. The book concludes with recommendations on how to strengthen human rights accountability and improve access to justice for adversely affected individuals It will be of great interest to those researching the intersection between human rights development cooperation and investment The Right to Development and International Economic Law Isabella D Bunn, 2012-03-01 The United Nations is commemorating the 25th anniversary of the 1986 Declaration on the Right to Development which proclaimed the right to be an inalienable human right by virtue of which every human person and all peoples are entitled to participate in contribute to and enjoy economic social cultural and political development in which all human rights and fundamental freedoms can be realized The UN now aims to mainstream the right into its policies and operational activities and is reviewing prospects for an internationally binding legal instrument The evolution of the right to development however has been dominated by debates about its conceptual validity and practical ramifications It has been hailed as the cornerstone of the entire human rights system and criticized as a distracting ideological initiative Questions also persist about the role of the right in reforming the international economic order This book examines the legal and moral foundations of the right to development addressing the major issues It then considers the right to development in the global economy noting the challenges of globalization and identifying key principles such as differential treatment of developing countries participation and accountability It relates the right to broad objectives such as the Millennium Development Goals the human rights based approach to development and environmental sustainability Implications for international economic law and policy in the areas of trade development finance and corporate responsibility are assessed The conclusion looks to the legal and ethical contributions and limitations of the right to development in this new context With an academic and professional background in international law human rights and moral theology the author brings a unique interdisciplinary focus to this timely project Perspectives on the right to development Carol C Ngang, Serges Djoyou Kamga, Vusi Gumede, 2018-01-01 The last couple of decades has not only witnessed an increased convergence between human rights and development but also a significant shift towards rights based approaches to development including especially responsiveness to the fact that development in itself is a human right guaranteed to be enjoyed by all peoples This edited volume of peer reviewed papers constitutes the first product resulting from the annual international conference series on the right to development organised by the Centre for Human Rights University of Pretoria and the Thabo Mbeki African Leadership Institute at the University of South Africa It explores the complex nature of the right to development from a diversified perspective including from a conceptual thematic country and regional points of view Conceived with the purpose to overshadow dominant economic growth approaches to development the perspectives on the right to development articulated in this publication seek to locate the developmentalist discourse within the framework of accountability and people centred development programming necessitating appropriate policy formulation to ensure the constant improvement in human well being The book is written with the aim to reach out to researchers academics practitioners and policy makers who desire an in depth understanding of the right to development as

Education and International Development, 2000-2020 Ian Wash,2024-08-22 Education and International Development 2000 2020 A Constructivist Critique of the One size fits all Liberal Model advances the claim that there exists a liberal theory of international education Ian Wash argues that the assumed harmony of this model is the main source of dispute in the field of education and international development The liberal thinking behind the aspirations for education the political levers necessary for its effective governance and the ideas behind the policies all have contributed towards growing tensions that prevented international education from achieving optimal functionality Through a qualitative discourse analysis of the key policy documents produced between 2000 and 2020 Wash reveals how the liberal model was discursively constructed as a grand narrative of three acts that chronicles the vision process and outcomes of international education Such a rendering brings an understanding of the hidden conflicts essential for finding a resolution to this policy puzzle thereby improving the prosperity and wellbeing of those in poorer countries
