"MY FAVOURITE PERSONALITY"

Every person in this world has a hero. People have heroes because they really admire that person and they really look up to that person. They want to do what they have done and they have achieved in their life. Like every person, I also have a hero. My hero had a great personality and a great heart. His name is Quaid-e-Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah. I choose him as my hero because I really admire him. I admire his style, his personality and what he did for the Muslims of our country. He gave Muslims their freedom from the British Empire that was ruling at that time. Quaid-e-Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah was born on Dec. 25th, 1876, to a prominent mercantile family in Karachi. Jinnah was the second child, he had three brothers and three sisters, including his younger sister Fatima Jinnah. Jinnah lived for a time in Bombay with an aunt and may have attended the Gokal Das Tej Primary School there, or possibly a madrasa, later on moving to the Cathedral and John Connon School. In Karachi, he attended the Sindh-Madrasa-ul-Islam and the Christian Missionary Society High School. He gained his matriculation from Bombay University at the high school. In 1893 he went to London. Soon after his arrival in London, Jinnah gave up the apprenticeship in order to study law. He joined Lincoln's Inn there.

The aspiring barrister joined Lincoln's Inn, later stating that the reason he chose Lincoln's over the other Inns of Court was that over the main entrance to Lincoln's Inn were the names of the world's great lawgivers, including Muhammad. He became an admirer of the Parsi Indian political leaders Dadabhai Naoroji. In 1895, at age 19, he became the youngest Indian to be called to the bar in England. Although he returned to Karachi, he remained there only a short time before moving to Bombay. Aged twenty, Jinnah began his practice in Bombay, the only Muslim barrister in the city. English had become his principal language and would remain so throughout his life. His first three years in the law, from 1897 to 1900, brought him few briefs. One of Jinnah's fellow barristers from the Bombay High Court remembered that: "Jinnah's faith in himself was incredible". Jinnah began political life by attending the Congress's twentieth annual meeting, in Bombay in December 1904. He was a member of the moderate group in the Congress, favouring Hindu-Muslim unity in achieving self-government, and following such leaders as Mehta, Naoroji, and Gopal Krishna Gokhale. Due to the conspiracies of Congress members, he joined the Muslim League in 1906. He had a staunch belief in Muslims. He gave Muslims a new hope, a hope of living independently again. He said that: "Hindus and Muslims are two separate nations having different beliefs and different ideologies". He always considered Muslims a separate and strong nation. He compelled Muslims to fight for their rights. Although Jinnah initially opposed separate electorates for Muslims, he used this means to gain his first
