Target Station Optimization for the High-Brilliance Neutron Source HBS Jan Philipp Dabruck, 2018-12-29 In the present work the target station of the accelerator driven neutron source HBS is optimized in comprehensive parameter studies using the Monto Carlo method The dependence of the most important performance characteristics of such a system on the external parameters is investigated neglecting technical and mechanical limitations In this way qualitative and quantitative statements for all possible configurations and envisaged applications can be derived and should be considered in the detailed planning of such facilities For this purpose different scenarios are considered that place completely different requirements on the design of the target station The central statements derived in this thesis can be transferred to any framework conditions such as different accelerator energies so that these results can be used in the development of other neutron sources which together with the HBS form a European network and provide a prosperous community in neutron science

Wong,Anne Rath Rentfro,1995      Pediatric Procedural Adaptations for Low-Resource Settings Tina M. Slusher,Ashley R. Bjorklund,Stephanie M. Lauden,2022-10-27 Despite global advancements in pediatric medicine technologies which have become standard of care in high resource settings are unavailable in low and middle income countries due to cost availability or challenges maintaining equipment This book compiles evidence based and expert clinical procedural adaptations in an approachable case based step by step guide aimed to provide educational support for healthcare providers practicing in resource limited settings This responds to both the high demand for this content and the importance of gathering experts across continents and pediatric disciplines Each chapter provides both a theoretical framework and practical discussion of high yield procedural adaptations Leading international researchers and seasoned clinicians with expertise using these adaptations were selected by the editors as authors. Chapters include an example case with adaptation use and detailed instructions including supplies, indications, risks, and benefits. Content is grounded in current best practice recommendations and evidence-based research. Highlighted by the COVID 19 pandemic, a mature understanding of pathophysiology and device design safety is required when providing care in low resource settings or in crisis times. In-person instruction is not always feasible. Written and virtual platforms remain critical in disseminating high yield practical content. This book is not a substitute for appropriate procedural training though is easily modified to meet the educational needs of diverse learner groups. It is a valuable resource for appropriately trained practitioners practicing in accordance with local guidelines. Knowledge and fluency with pediatric procedural adaptations is critical in efforts to reduce global inequities and pediatric morbidity/mortality in low resource settings.

Research in Education, 1970      Resources in Education, 1970      The Pharmacist's Expanded Role in Critical Care Medicine Yasir Alzaidi, Mohamed Abdelzaher Gebily, 2025-05-02. There are few textbooks aimed specifically at critical care pharmacists, particularly in terms of their potential role in diagnosis. Recognizing this important gap, the editors of this comprehensive book have gathered together 55 chapters that provide an overview of core aspects of critical care patient management from the pharmacist's perspective. The chapters, written by an international team of more than 100 experts, provide an important update on the physiological and pathological mechanisms of key areas of critical illness and the diagnostic and therapeutic approaches to these conditions for the pharmacist. There are chapters focusing on specific diseases or conditions including shock, acute liver failure, acute kidney injury, delirium, and acute pulmonary embolism; chapters on interpretation of diagnostic tests such as radiology and electrocardiography; chapters on therapeutic interventions including mechanical ventilation, intravenous fluids, renal replacement therapy, ECMO, nutrition, and blood transfusion; and chapters on specific groups of ICU patients including obstetric, oncology, transplant, and burn patients. Two of the chapters on the approach to clinical reasoning in critical care and sustainable pharmacy practice in the ICU are unique chapters to pharmacy education and training. Providing an up-to-date overview of topics related to critical care and emphasizing the importance of correct diagnosis in providing appropriate and optimal treatment, this collection will help prepare ICU pharmacists for their multifaceted responsibilities as members of the ICU team, including an expanded role in limiting misdiagnosis. This book will serve as a useful resource for all pharmacists involved in the management of critically ill patients, whatever their level of experience and training.
