complex and layering on social and economic considerations can make environmental decision making seem intractable. Dynamics of socio ecological systems are complicated making models a pivotal tool for identifying and quantifying relationships, assessing historical patterns and forecasting alternative decision scenarios. The goal of this Research Topic is to leverage modeling approaches to provide science based evidence, metrics and frameworks and methods for quantifying how restored ecosystem goods and services lead to benefits for public health, community well being and economic vitality. Modeling approaches may range in complexity from conceptual models to statistical models to dynamic process models, empirically derived to mechanistic to participatory. Research will evaluate connections between ecosystem condition, ecosystem services and human health and well being and may include covarying socio economic or biophysical factors that modify relationships between ecosystem health and perceived or realized benefits. Applications or case studies will demonstrate how to integrate community priorities with nature based solutions to enhance benefits of environmental remediation, ecological restoration, community revitalization and climate resilience decisions. Practical Management of Research Animal Care and Use Programs Javier Guillén, Viola Galligioni, 2024-11-06. This book provides a complete guide to all the aspects to consider during planning, establishing and managing ethically and efficiently research animal care and use programs, taking into account all stakeholders involved in the process. Practical information on how to address the general and particular needs of all animal care and use program areas is provided. Consequently, the reader is supported with getting their project ethically and legally compliant and implemented efficiently, with organizing safe and appropriate facilities and equipment as well as hiring sufficiently trained personnel. Furthermore, strategies for impactful internal and external communication are outlined. Responsible use of animals in research can be nothing but teamwork. The environment and professional experience of all involved stakeholders are the key for ensuring quality science as well as animal and personnel welfare. Research animal care and use programs represent a complex system in which animals, legislation and good practices, facility, personnel and researchers interact on a daily basis. Thoughtful planning from the first step ensures animal welfare and improves the quality of in vivo experimentation. This book addresses animal program managers, veterinarians, researchers and technicians working in research animal facilities.
