Dear E,

I'm sorry to hear that you are sad. We can't go to Everest and Irelyn's house because it is raining today. But I have great news! We will go to their house on Friday instead! Megan said they will wait for a sunny day for the egg hunt.

What can we do today at home to cheer you up?

Love,
Mamma

Journal Writing For Students:

Questions for Students Joe Deely, 2018-07-24 About the book from the author This book provides the questions I pose to my students for their daily writing journals Getting my students to write at the start of class has been a great way to begin my time with them because it immediately involves them in a short activity that engages their minds and produces work Students earn full credit if they address the questions and give support of their answers in their responses For feedback I ll point out writing errors and give suggestions and comments of support Through their responses I see their strength and weaknesses as writers and find the areas they need to work on but often and perhaps more importantly it gives me insight on issues my students are dealing with Students will often confide in their journals topics they are unable or unwilling to vocalize The journal questions have been a great way to cut through many issues both academically and emotionally that students face each day This helps with building relationships that ultimately results in trust which typically manifests into them producing quality work These prompts will often inspire discussions about key issues of the day which are a great way to make important connections with my students Through developing these personal connections it has enabled me to know my students better and to teach to them at their levels I use these questions as tools that I think other teachers can easily implement in their classroom Hopefully teachers from a variety of academic levels will find this book useful and can create writing and discussion lessons based on these questions Parents might find this book a fun way to discover what their children are thinking about and how they use reason and logic to arrive at answers See where these questions might take you and above all enjoy what you discover and have good time mulling through the possibilities I hope the questions in this book inspire deeper thinking and contemplative reflections things which humanity needs more than ever Writing Students

Marguerite H. Helmers, 1994-11-22 This is a book about the usual teacher student relationship in composition courses It disrupts and rewrites the commonplace conception of the relationship by revealing the uneven ways in which power is deployed in and around the classroom And it offers a responsible alternative The author not only offers teachers a way of learning about power relations at their own specific sites but also works towards a more equitable redistribution Drawing from testimonials about teaching practice published in the journal College Composition and Communication Helmers explores conventions in this form of writing that portray students in a negative light and show the teacher to be powerfully triumphant in his or her creative pedagogy Several prevalent modes of representation are discussed in the book all of which define the students as distinctly different from the teachers in other words as an other The texture of the work is rich because Helmers takes an enormous amount of post structuralist theory and recasts it in the sphere of the teacher student relationship itself an underexplored realm Journal Writing in Second Language Education

Christine Pearson Casanave, 2011-02-04 Journal writing is not new journals have been around for centuries More recently journals have been viewed as a means of scaffolding reflective teaching and encouraging reflectivity in research processes As a result some educators may ask What more do we need to know Those likely to raise this question are probably not thinking of the explosive growth of reflective writing enabled by social networking on the Web the blogs and other interactive e vehicles for reflection on experiences in our literate real and virtual lives This revisiting of journal writing from a 21st century perspective informed by relevant earlier literature is what Christine Pearson Casanave guides readers through in this first book length treatment of the use of journal writing in the contexts of language learning pre and in service teaching and research Casanave has put together existing ideas that haven t been put together before and has done it not as an edited collection but as a single authored book She has done it in a way that will be especially accessible to teachers in language teacher education programs and to practicing teachers and researchers of writing in both second and foreign language settings and in a way that will inspire all of us to think about not just do journal writing Those who have never attempted to use journals in their classes and own lives as well as others who have used it with mixed results will probably be tempted to try it in at least some of the venues Casanave provides guidance for Those already committed to journal writing will very likely find in this book new reasons for expanding and enhancing their use of journals
