Injuries, Injury

Prevention and Training in Climbing Gudmund Grønhaug, Atle Hole, Saeterbakken, Volker Rainer Schöffl, Andreas

Schweizer, 2024-04-19. Climbing as an activity has a long and proud history of ascending mountains and steep walls. Still, as a newly acknowledged Olympic sport, climbing has a short history of systematic training and injury prevention. Sport climbing is divided into three disciplines: bouldering, lead climbing, and speed climbing, each requiring different physiological and psychological abilities. These disciplines again lead to different mechanical loading and thereby possible injuries. Furthermore, climbing is practiced by a diversified population, from the recreational climber to the professional athlete. One of the things that separates climbing from most other Olympic sports is that a vast majority of the athletes operates outside the federations. Even internationally, high performing climbers are not organized or part of a team with trainers and health personnel.
