Mastering Formative Assessment Moves Brent Ducker, Carrie Holmberg, 2017-06-27 How do you know if students are with you at the beginning middle and end of a lesson Can formative assessment offer a key to better teaching and learning during instruction

What if you could blend different formative assessment moves in your classroom with intention and care for all students to help make better instructional decisions on the fly and enjoy more teachable moments? Educators Brent Duckor and Carrie Holmberg invite you on the journey to becoming a formative assessor. They encourage you to focus on these seven research-based high leverage formative assessment moves: Priming (building on background knowledge and creating a formative assessment rich equitable classroom culture), Posing (asking questions in relation to learning targets across the curriculum that elicit Habits of Mind), Pausing (waiting after powerful questions and rich tasks to encourage more student responses by supporting them to think aloud and use speaking and listening skills related to academic language), Probing (deepening discussions asking for elaborations and making connections using sentence frames and starters), Bouncing (sampling student responses systematically to broaden participation, manage flow of conversation and gather more soft data for instructional use), Tagging (describing and recording student responses without judgment and making public how students with different styles and needs approach learning in real time), and Binning (interpreting student responses with a wide range of tools, categorizing misconceptions and p-prims and using classroom generated data to make more valid and reliable instructional decisions on next steps in the lesson and unit). Each chapter explores a classroom tested move including foundational research explaining how and when to best use it and describing what it looks like in practice. Highlights include case studies, try now tasks and tips and advice from beginning and seasoned teachers who use these formative assessment moves in their classrooms.
