Routledge Handbook of Marxian Economics David M. Brennan,David Kristjanson-Gural,Catherine P. Mulder,Erik K. Olsen,2017-03-16 Most developed economies are characterized by high levels of inequality and an inability to provide stability or opportunity for many of their citizens Mainstream economics has proven to be of little assistance in addressing these systemic failures and this has led both scholars and students to seek alternatives. One such alternative is provided by Marxian economics. In recent decades the field has seen tremendous theoretical development and Marxian perspectives have begun to appear in public discourse in unprecedented ways. This handbook contains thirty seven original essays from a wide range of leading international scholars recognized for their expertise in different areas of Marxian economics. Its scope is broad ranging from contributions on familiar Marxist concepts such as value theory the labor process accumulation crisis and socialism to others not always associated with the Marxian canon like feminism ecology international migration and epistemology. This breadth of coverage reflects the development of Marxian economic and social theory and encompasses both the history and the frontiers of current scholarship. This handbook provides an extensive statement of the current shape and future direction of Marxian economics. The Routledge Handbook of Marxian Economics is an invaluable resource for students researchers and policy makers seeking guidance in this field. It is designed to serve both as a reference work and as a supplementary text for classroom use with applications for courses in economics sociology political science management anthropology development studies philosophy and history.

Handbook on Oil and International Relations Dannreuther, Roland, Ostrowski, Wojciech, 2022-08-16. This Handbook provides an in depth analysis of the multiple ways in which oil has shaped changed and affected international relations and global politics. Theoretically innovative it provides new insights into the interaction between the materiality of oil and its social economic and political manifestations.

Fortress Farming Jeff Neilson, 2025-05-15. Fortress Farming identifies in Indonesia's rural coffee growing regions an alternative livelihood strategy that is reshaping relationships with land and informing Indonesia's agrarian transition. Jeff Neilson presents fortress farming households as ones that are reluctant to embrace productivity maximizing agriculture even as they interact with commodity markets and powerful downstream companies. Rather these households tenaciously maintain access to land as a last defense against insecurity in a precarious global economy all the while actively tapping into off farm income sources. Fortress farming confounds assumptions that the development process entails an inevitable transition away from the land and into city based manufacturing. Shifting away from production to take a fuller view of rural Indonesian coffee growing communities Fortress Farming explores how and why defensive farming strategies have emerged and what these tendencies mean for our understanding of agrarian transition in late industrializing countries in the early twenty first century. Neilson posits that late industrializing countries may never undergo a full agrarian transition. In the alternative livelihood practice of fortress farming we see a way that local social institutions can resist or at least modify the productive forces of capitalist agriculture.

Making Cities Global A. K. Sandoval-Strausz, Nancy H. Kwak, 2018. Making Cities Global argues that combining urban history with a transnational approach leads to a better understanding of our increasingly interconnected world. In order to achieve prosperity peace and sustainability in metropolitan areas in the present and into the future we must understand their historical origins and development.
