Geography P2013 June Question Paper:

The UK Regional-National Economic Problem Philip McCann, 2016-03-10 In recent years the United Kingdom has become a more and more divided society with inequality between the regions as marked as it has ever been In a landmark analysis of the current state of Britain's regional development Philip McCann utilises current statistics examines historical trends and makes pertinent international comparisons to assess the state of the nation The UK Regional National Economic Problem brings attention to the highly centralised top down governance structure that the UK deploys and demonstrates that it is less than ideally placed to rectify these inequalities The North South divide in the UK has never been greater and the rising inequalities are evident in almost all aspects of the economy including productivity incomes employment status and wealth Whilst the traditional economic dominance of London and its hinterland has continued along with relative resilience in the South West of England and Scotland in contrast the Midlands the North of England Northern Ireland and Wales lag behind by most measures of prosperity This inequality is greatly limiting national economic performance and the fact that Britain has a below average standard of living by European and OECD terms has been ignored The UK's economic and governance inequality is unlikely to be fundamentally rebalanced by the current governance and connectivity trends although this definitive study suggests that some areas of improvement are possible if they are well implemented This pivotal analysis is essential reading for postgraduate students in economics and urban studies as well as researchers and policy makers in local and central government

Rewriting the North Chloe Ashbridge,2023-05-15 This book shows how twenty first century writing about Northern England imagines alternative democratic futures for the region and the English nation signalling the growing awareness of England as a distinct and variegated political formation In 2016 the Brexit vote intensified ongoing constitutional tensions throughout the UK which have been developing since the devolution of Scotland Wales and Northern Ireland in 1997 At the same time British devolution developed a distinctively cultural registration as a surrogate for parliamentary representation and an attempt to disrupt the status of London as Britain s cultural epicentre Rewriting the North shifts this debate in a new direction examining Northern literary preoccupation with devolution s constitutional implications Through close readings of six contemporary authors Sunjeev Sahota Sarah Hall Anthony Cartwright Adam Thorpe Fiona Mozley and Sarah Moss this book argues that literary engagement with the North emphasises regional devolution s limited constitutional charge calling instead for an urgent abandonment of the British centralised state form     The Surveyor & Municipal & County Engineer ,1952

Urban Displacements Susanne Soederberg,2020-12-30 WINNER of the BISA IPEG Book Prize 2021 <https://www.bisa.ac.uk/members/working-groups/ipeg/articles/ipeg-2021-book-prize-winner-announced> With an eye to further our understanding of everyday life in global capitalism Urban Displacements provides the first systemic critical political economy analysis of low income rental housing and social dislocations combining both theoretical advancements and detailed empirical studies centering on Berlin Dublin and Vienna Soederberg pushes beyond dominant debates by treating low rent housing as a unique commodity that provides a necessary place for the societal reproduction of labour power whilst being integrated into the global dynamics of capitalism She argues that historical and geographical configurations of monetized governance including landlords employers and inter scalar state practices have served to reproduce urban displacements and obfuscate their gendered class and racialized underpinnings The outcome is the everyday facilitation and normalization of urban poverty and social marginalization on one side and capital accumulation on the other Building on Soederberg's previous book Debtfare States and the Poverty Industry this accessible and interdisciplinary text will be useful to academics and students in political science sociology geography urban studies labour studies European studies and gender studies

Routledge Handbook of Food as a Commons Jose Luis Vivero-Pol, Tomaso Ferrando, Olivier De Schutter, Ugo Mattei, 2018-12-17 From the scientific and industrial revolution to the present day food an essential element of life has been progressively transformed into a private transnational mono dimensional commodity of mass consumption for a global market But over the last decade there has been an increased recognition that this can be challenged and reconceptualized if food is regarded and enacted as a commons This Handbook provides the first comprehensive review and synthesis of knowledge and new thinking on how food and food systems can be thought interpreted and practiced around the old new paradigms of commons and commoning The overall aim is to investigate the multiple constraints that occur within and sustain the dominant food and nutrition regime and to explore how it can change when different elements of the current food systems are explored and re imagined from a commons perspective Chapters do not define the notion of commons but engage with different schools of thought the economic approach based on rivalry and excludability the political approach recognizing the plurality of social constructions and incorporating epistemologies from the South the legal approach that describes three types of proprietary regimes private public and collective and different layers of entitlement bundles of rights and the radical activist approach that considers the commons as the most subversive coherent and history rooted alternative to the dominant neoliberal narrative These schools have different and rather diverging epistemologies vocabularies ideological stances and policy proposals to deal with the construction of food systems their governance the distributive implications and the socio ecological impact on Nature and Society The book sparks the debate on food as a commons between and within disciplines with particular attention to spaces of resistance food sovereignty de growth open knowledge transition town occupations bottom up social innovations and organizational scales local food national policies South South collaborations international governance and multi national agreements Overall it shows the consequences of a shift to the alternative paradigm of food as a commons in terms of food the planet and living beings

Surveyor and Municipal and County Engineer, 1951 The Political Economy of Low Carbon Transformation Harold Wilhite, 2016-03-10 Deep reductions in energy use and carbon emissions will not be possible within political economies that are driven by the capitalist imperatives of growth commodification and individualization As such it has now become necessary to understand the relationship between capitalism and the emergence of high energy habits Using the examples of home energy transport and food The Political Economy of Low Carbon Transformation articulates the relationship between the politics of economic expansion and the formation of high energy habits at the level of family and household The book elaborates a theory of habit and how it can contribute to this relationship It critiques mainstream green economy and green energy prescriptions for low carbon transformation that take economic growth for granted and ignore habits formed in a material world designed and built for high energy use The book explores the growing number of communities around the world that are engaged in collaborative efforts to reform their community and household habits in ways that are less environmentally intrusive It assesses their potential to make an impact on national and urban low carbon political agendas The book is aimed at a large and growing interdisciplinary audience interested in the relationship between political economy consumption and sustainability

The Political Economy of State Intervention Gavin Poynter, 2020-11-25 Both the exponents and critics of neoliberalism assert the dominance of market forces in western nations The Political Economy of State Intervention calls this into question Through a re examination of state intervention in the USA and Britain over the course of the long depression 1970 to date this book argues that the state has performed an increasingly significant role in conserving capital propping up an economic and social order that has lost its productive dynamism The specific forms of capital's dependency on the state may vary however the underlying weaknesses of mature western economies have prompted new forms of state intervention narrowly aimed at conserving capital especially in the wake of the financial crisis The chapters consider factors which are usually posited as explanations for the long depression such as oil price shocks domestic conditions and technological innovation The work argues that the consensus view of neoliberalism has served to underplay the significance of the state's role in failing to lift this long depression in several ways it has lent a greater ideological coherence to the policies pursued by successive governments than they deserve the state has been less subordinate to the market than is usually claimed and more often its maker and there has been a significant growth in jobs located in the private sector that are funded by public money The cumulative effect of this is a narrowing of the state's purpose to conserving capital a role which has contributed to its loss of authority as an institution that claims to represent society as a whole It is theorised that this in turn has led to the insecurities of the existing political order and the rise of populism This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of political economy public policy political theory economics and sociology

Rethinking Youth Citizenship After the Age of Entitlement Lucas Walsh, Rosalyn Black, 2018-03-22 Rethinking Youth Citizenship After the Age of Entitlement provides a primer for exploring hard questions about how young people understand experience and enact their citizenship in uncertain times and about their senses of membership and belonging It examines how familiar modes of exclusion are compounded by punitive youth policies in ways that are concealed by neoliberal discourses It considers the role of key institutions in constructing young people's citizenship and looks at the ways in which some young people are opting out of established enactments of citizenship while creating new ones Critically reflecting on recent scholarly interest in the geographical relational affective and temporal dimensions of young people's experiences of citizenship it also reinvigorates

the discussion about citizenship rights and entitlements and what these might mean for young people The book draws on global research and theories of citizenship but has a particular focus on Australia which provides a unique example of a country that has fared well economically yet is mimicking the austerity measures of the United Kingdom and Europe It concludes with an argument for a rethinking of citizenship which recognises young people's rights as citizens and the ways in which these interact with their lived experience at a time that has been characterised as the end of the age of entitlement

EU-Central Asian Interactions Rick Fawn, Karolina Kluczevska, Oleg Korneev, 2024-07-12 From limited interactions in the early 1990s the EU and Central Asia now consider each other to be increasingly important This book includes 12 chapters written by seasoned and policy engaged researchers from across Eurasia and the wider world that analyse multiple levels of mutual interactions understandings and misunderstandings across a range of policy areas It shows why and in what ways exactly the EU and Central Asia matter to each other and why policymakers and researchers should pay more attention to their interactions Central Asia falls under the broader external relations and security agenda of the EU and over years it provided a testing ground for many EU policies including the priority ones of region building and resilience promotion Looking at the EU in turn informs as to how Central Asian actors interact with external partners of the region and how that can influence national policy agendas and consequently everyday life bringing new approaches insights and evidence also to the wide field of EU studies This book is of key interest to scholars practitioners and students of Central Asian history and politics EU foreign policy EU Central Asia relations and more broadly of EU studies International Relations regionalism and interregionalism as well as security studies The chapters in this book were published over three issues of Central Asian Survey

"I Love Learning; I Hate School" Susan D. Blum, 2016-01-13 Frustrated by her students' performance her relationships with them and her own daughter's problems in school Susan D Blum a professor of anthropology set out to understand why her students found their educational experience at a top tier institution so profoundly difficult and unsatisfying Through her research and in conversations with her students she discovered a troubling mismatch between the goals of the university and the needs of students In I Love Learning I Hate School Blum tells two intertwined but inseparable stories the results of her research into how students learn contrasted with the way conventional education works and the personal narrative of how she herself was transformed by this understanding Blum concludes that the dominant forms of higher education do not match the myriad forms of learning that help students people in general master meaningful and worthwhile skills and knowledge Students are capable of learning huge amounts but the ways higher education is structured often leads them to fail to learn More than that it leads to ill effects In this critique of higher education infused with anthropological insights Blum explains why so much is going wrong and offers suggestions for how to bring classroom learning more in line with appropriate forms of engagement She challenges our system of education and argues for a reintegration of learning with life
