Assessing Mathematical Literacy Kaye Stacey, Ross Turner, 2014-11-03 This book describes the design development delivery and impact of the mathematics assessment for the OECD Programme for International Student Assessment PISA First the origins of PISA's concept of mathematical literacy are discussed highlighting the underlying themes of mathematics as preparation for life after school and mathematical modelling of the real world and clarifying PISA's position within this part of the mathematics education territory The PISA mathematics framework is introduced as a significant milestone in the development and dissemination of these ideas The underlying mathematical competencies on which mathematical literacy so strongly depends are described along with a scheme to use them in item creation and analysis The development and implementation of the PISA survey and the consequences for the outcomes are thoroughly discussed Different kinds of items for both paper based and computer based PISA surveys are exemplified by many publicly released items along with details of scoring The novel survey of the opportunity students have had to learn the mathematics promoted through PISA is explained The book concludes by surveying international impact It presents viewpoints of mathematics educators on how PISA and its constituent ideas and methods have influenced teaching and learning practices curriculum arrangements assessment practices and the educational debate more generally in fourteen countries

processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices This book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice It will also appeal to teacher educators practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research Family Involvement in Education ,1998
