

Text for Section A, an extract from 'Stig of the Dump' by Clive King

The Ground Gives Way

If you went too near the edge of the chalk-pit the ground would give way. Barney had been told this often enough. Everybody had told him. His grandmother, every time he came to stay with her. His sister, every time she wasn't telling him something else. Barney had a feeling, somewhere in his middle, that it was probably true about the ground giving way. But still, there was a difference between being told and seeing it happen. And today was one of those grey days when there was nothing to do, nothing to play, and nowhere to go. Except to the chalk-pit. The dump.

Barney got through the rickety fence and went to the edge of the pit. This had been the side of a hill once, he told himself. Men had come to dig away the chalk and left this huge hole in the earth. He thought of all the sticks of chalk they must have made, and all the blackboards in the school they must have written on. They must have dug for hundreds of years. And then got tired of digging, or somebody had told them to stop before they dug away all the hill. And now they did not know what to do with this empty hole and they were trying to fill it up again. Anything people didn't want they threw into the bottom of the pit.

He crawled through the rough grass and peered over. The sides of the pit were white chalk, with lines of flints poking out like bones in places. At the top was crumbly brown earth and the roots of the trees that grew on the edge. The roots

20

Barney looked at the roots of the trees that grew on the edge of the pit. They were like old men's hands, reaching down into the earth. The earth was white, but the roots were brown. Barney had never seen anything like this before. He had never seen anything like this before. He had never seen anything like this before.

25

The roots were like old men's hands, reaching down into the earth. The earth was white, but the roots were brown. Barney had never seen anything like this before. He had never seen anything like this before. He had never seen anything like this before.

30

Barney looked at the roots of the trees that grew on the edge of the pit. They were like old men's hands, reaching down into the earth. The earth was white, but the roots were brown.

35

Barney looked at the roots of the trees that grew on the edge of the pit. They were like old men's hands, reaching down into the earth. The earth was white, but the roots were brown.

40

This is what it's like when the ground gives way, thought Barney. Then he looked down. He saw a hole in the ground. It was a hole in the ground.

Mathematical Reviews ,2008 The Three Waves of Globalization Franca Poppi,2014-01-16 Globalization i e the spatio temporal processes of change leading to a transformation in the organization of human affairs is said to have started as long ago as the end of the 15th century This first wave of globalization was subsequently followed by two others The third wave of globalization which began after 2000 has made the world noticeably smaller In fact technological innovations have sharply increased the availability of new modes and channels of communication As a result the sharing of knowledge and information all around the world has substantially increased and this has prompted the emergence of new globalizing genres In addition it has led to the implementation of a series of adaptations to the existing genres in an attempt to guarantee their success and survival in an era which celebrates the need for a global reach In order to investigate these winds of change in generic studies the present volume combines a historical perspective with a detailed survey of different contemporary discourses and genres situated in an array of contexts of interaction Accordingly the empirically informed analyses of discourses and genres do not only focus on the textual intertextual and interdiscursive features but also on the institutional organizational professional and socio cultural settings i e all those aspects which show how genres reflect changing disciplinary and professional cultures As a consequence and in line with the multi faceted nature of genre different reading paths can be followed in the present volume On the one hand it is possible to make a distinction between professional institutional and academic contexts On the other hand the concept of change will also be investigated by focusing on oral written and web mediated genres Throughout the volume the different reading paths aim at highlighting the influence of the three waves of globalization on genre evolution thus contributing to providing evidence in favour of the homogenization or fragmentation hypotheses which claim new global genres are outnumbering or are outnumbered by the proliferation of a myriad of new customized genres
