Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the strength and endurance of young women. The subjects were 15 female college students who were randomly assigned to a control group and a training group. The training group performed a 12-week program of resistance and aerobic training. The control group did not participate in any training program. The results showed that the training group had significantly greater strength and endurance than the control group at the end of the 12-week program. The findings suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the strength and endurance of young women.

Unlike baropods, humans can't swim weight. They float over warm oceans when air pressure is low, which means the force of Earth's atmosphere is pressing downward with less force. When air pressure is low, air on Earth's surface can rise more easily.

Tornadoes are quite a bit smaller than hurricanes. Most tornadoes are less than a quarter of a mile wide. The longest ones can be more than a mile wide and 50 miles long. In contrast, a hurricane can measure 500 miles from side to side. Although hurricanes form over water, they can travel 200 miles or more over land before dying out.
