Figure 1

(i) Suggest an enquiry question or hypothesis that the students might have proposed for their investigation.

(10)

How ~~are~~ effective is coastal management in protecting the coastline from erosion?

The first part of this response is unclear although there is a basic idea of 'trouble to drive there', which could be developed to make the point clear and garner a second mark for the point. The second part of this response is explicit about the rocks and the subsequent risks involved, 3 marks.

Do not leave things unexplained by using vague terms such as 'difficult' or 'trouble' - why might it be 'difficult'?

(ii) Explain how the use of Ordnance Survey (OS) maps might have helped the students choose their two beach locations and the three sites on each of those beaches to carry out the profiles.

(10)

OS maps allow you to see the profile onto land and to show you the contours in a location where there is no water present so that you can get a slight beach gradient and inland slope gradient. It also shows you the coast if very close. It shows a rock or is a beach. It tells you the sea around the beach gradient. The OS map also shows you the tide line with rock markers to it so if you draw the tide around the gradient using blue. You can also see features that beach erosion drops to that you are able to put a beach which has been eroded and what it has been replaced by.

(iii) Suggest two problems that the students' choice of locations may have caused for their collection.

(10)

1. It was a problem with finding both beach sites. Location A is a lot more built up than location B meaning there may be more ~~obstacles~~ ^{things in the way} at A than B.
 2. Location B seems to be ~~more difficult~~ ^{harder} to get to as there is a rocky shoreline which looks dangerous. Like A looks a bit easier to get to as it is more of a flat area.

This answer uses the material at the top of the page and presents it as a legitimate question, 2 marks.

Always use the resource.

There is obviously great familiarity with OS maps and several points are made, although some of them especially clearly. The answer is rather spelt by the persistent references to colour when, certainly in some cases, English probably intended to say sand. As with many candidates, the distinction between site and location is not made clear in this
