Fragments Marilyn Monroe, 2010-10-12 Marilyn Monroe's image is so universal that we can't help but believe that we know all there is to know of her. Every word and gesture made headlines and garnered controversy. Her serious gifts as an actor were sometimes eclipsed by her notoriety and the way the camera fell helplessly in love with her. But what of the other Marilyn? Beyond the headlines and the too familiar stories of heartbreak and desolation was a woman far more curious, searching and hopeful than the one the world got to know. Even as Hollywood studios tried to mold and suppress her, Marilyn never lost her insight, her passion, and her humour. To confront the mounting difficulties of her life, she wrote. Now for the first time we can meet this private Marilyn and get to know her in a way we never have before. Fragments is an unprecedented collection of written artifacts: notes to herself, letters, even poems in Marilyn's own handwriting, never before published, along with rarely seen intimate photos. These bits of text, jotted in notebooks, typed on paper, or written on hotel letterhead, reveal a woman who loved deeply and strove to perfect her craft. They show a Marilyn Monroe unsparing in her analysis of her own life but also playful, funny, and impossibly charming. The easy grace and deceptive lightness that made her performances so memorable emerge on the page, as does the simmering tragedy that made her last appearances so heartbreaking. Fragments is an event, an unforgettable book that will redefine one of the greatest stars of the twentieth century and which, nearly fifty years after her death, will definitively reveal Marilyn Monroe's humanity. Marilyn Monroe: Fragments Poems, Intimate Notes, Letters, 2010

Film Phenomenologies Kelli Fuery, 2024-09-30 With an interdisciplinary agenda, Film Phenomenologies investigates the emerging field of film phenomenology, linking the fundamental significance of early thinkers and related methods of phenomenological investigation to newer emphases and diverse voices such as Gaston Bachelard, Karen Barad, Simone de Beauvoir, bell hooks, Iris Murdoch, and Hermann Schmitz. Established scholars consider various themes including colonial duration and the politics of refusal, feeling, feminist time, the exchange of play, scalar theory, and scattered bodies, spectatorship, and the entanglement of montage, disability, dance, and speculative embodiment. AI, phenomenology, and breath gestures cinematic atmospheres, the precarious intimacy of the film screen, stardom, and biopics and Black lived experience. Divided into three parts, Film Phenomenologies offers a collective combination of phenomenological approaches, braiding classic and critical methods to explore aesthetic, embodied, ethical, and political perspectives. It is the first collection to provide a substantial engagement with diverse and inclusive directions in the field of film and media studies.

Stars, Fans, and Consumption in the 1950s Sumiko Higashi, 2014-12-17 As the leading fan magazine in the postwar era, Photoplay constructed female stars as social types who embodied a romantic and leisured California lifestyle. Addressing working and lower middle class readers who were prospering in the first mass consumption society, the magazine published not only publicity stories but also beauty secrets, fashion layouts, interior design tips, recipes, advice columns, and vacation guides. Postwar femininity was constructed in terms of access to commodities in suburban houses as the site of family togetherness As the decade progressed however changing social mores regarding female identity and behavior eroded the relationship between idolized stars and worshipful fans When the magazine adopted tabloid conventions to report sex scandals like the Debbie Eddie Liz affair stars were demystified and fans became scandalmongers But the construction of female identity based on goods and performance that resulted in unstable fragmented selves remains a legacy evident in postmodern culture today
