Literature for Young Adults Joan L. Knickerbocker,2017-03-15 Young adults are actively looking for anything that connects them with the changes happening in their lives and the books discussed throughout Literature for Young Adults have the potential to make that connection and motivate them to read It explores a great variety of works genres and formats but it places special emphasis on contemporary works whose nontraditional themes protagonists and literary conventions make them well suited to young adult readers It also looks at the ways in which contemporary readers access and share the works they re reading and it shows teachers ways to incorporate nontraditional ways of accessing and sharing books throughout their literature programs In addition to traditional genre chapters Literature for Young Adults includes chapters on literary nonfiction poetry short stories and drama cover art picture books illustrated literature and graphic novels and film It recognizes that while films can be used to complement print literature they are also a literacy format in their own right and one that young adults are particularly familiar and comfortable with The book s discussion of literary language including traditional elements as well as metafictional terms enables readers to share in a literary conversation with their students and others when communicating about books It will help readers teach young adults the language they need to articulate their responses to the books they are reading Herald of the Golden Age ,1897 Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature Supplement ,1916 The Middle-Class City John Henry Hepp, IV,2018-06-29 The classic historical interpretation of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries in America sees this period as a political search for order by the middle class culminating in Progressive Era reforms In The Middle Class City John Hepp examines transformations in everyday middle class life in Philadelphia between 1876 and 1926 to discover the cultural roots of this search for order By looking at complex relationships among members of that city's middle class and three largely bourgeois commercial institutions newspapers department stores and railroads Hepp finds that the men and women of the middle class consistently reordered their world along rational lines According to Hepp this period was rife with evidence of creative reorganization that served to mold middle class life The department store was more than just an expanded dry goods emporium it was a middle class haven of order in the heart of a frenetic city an entirely new way of organizing merchandise for sale Redesigned newspapers brought well ordered news and entertainment to middle class homes and also carried retail advertisements to entice consumers downtown via train and streetcar The complex interiors of urban railroad stations reflected a rationalization of space and rail schedules embodied the modernized specialization of standard time In his fascinating investigation of similar patterns of behavior among commercial institutions Hepp exposes an important intersection between the histories of the city and the middle class In his careful reconstruction of this now vanished culture Hepp examines a wide variety of sources including diaries and memoirs left by middle class women and men of the region Following Philadelphians as they rode trains and trolleys read newspapers and shopped at department stores he uses their accounts as individualized guidebooks to middle class life in the metropolis And through a creative use of photographs floor plans maps and material culture The Middle Class City helps to reconstruct the physical settings of these enterprises and recreate everyday middle class life shedding new light on an underanalyzed historical group and the cultural history of twentieth century America Making Imperial Mentalities

J. Mangan, 2012-05-04 This book discusses the way in which those born into the British empire were persuaded to accept it often with enthusiasm The study compares the perceptions of people at home in the dominions and in the colonies Across the diversity of imperial territories it explores themes such as the diverse nature of political socialisation the various agents and agencies of persuasion reaction to the experience of dominance by dominant and dominated the paradoxical impact of the missionary and the subversive role of some women It also considers the significant issues of colonial adaptation resistance and rejection and the post imperial consequences of imperialism The Reference Catalogue of Current Literature, 1906
