

3. Conceptual Framework

The conceptual framework of this research builds on the theory that training and development programs positively impact employee engagement and satisfaction. The following elements are considered:

- Employee Engagement: The emotional and intellectual commitment of employees to their jobs.
- Job Satisfaction: The extent to which employees feel content and fulfilled in their roles.
- Training & Development (T&D): Structured programs designed to enhance the knowledge, skills, and abilities of employees.

The model proposes that effective T&D initiatives drive employee engagement by providing a platform for professional growth and by aligning personal career goals with the organizational mission. This engagement, in turn, leads to higher job satisfaction, thereby improving employee retention and organizational performance.

4. Methodology

This research uses a mixed-methods approach to assess the impact of T&D programs on employee engagement and job satisfaction. The quantitative data was collected through employee surveys in organizations across different sectors. The survey measured levels of employee engagement, satisfaction, and the availability of T&D opportunities. Qualitative data were gathered through interviews with HR managers and employees who have participated in T&D programs, providing a deeper understanding of individual experiences.

4.1 Sample Selection

A total of 250 employees from various industries, including technology, healthcare, and finance, were selected. The respondents ranged in age, experience, and job positions to ensure diverse perspectives.

4.2 Data Collection

The survey consisted of Likert-scale questions focused on employee perceptions of training opportunities, engagement at work, and satisfaction with their current roles. Interview questions explored how employees felt after participating in training programs, with a focus on career advancement and personal growth.

Stone, James H. Dulebohn, 2016-10-01 This volume of the series Research in Human Resource Management HRM focuses on a number of important issues in HRM and OB including performance appraisal political skill gratitude psychological contracts the philosophical underpinnings of HRM pay and compensation messages and electronic human resource management For example the first article by Cleveland and Murphy considers a very controversial issue i.e the reasons that organizations are abandoning the use of performance appraisal The next article by Harris Ferris Summers and Munyon is extremely interesting and focuses on how composite political skills e.g social astuteness interpersonal influence helps individuals develop productive work relationships in organizations The third article by Scandura and Sharif presents a very innovative model of gratitude in organizations and the authors argue that gratitude is essential for maintaining positive social relations in organizations The fourth article by Suazo and Stone Romero provides an extremely comprehensive review of the theory and research on psychological contracts in organizations from 1960 2015 The subsequent article by Bae Kang and Kim presents a very unique perspective on HRM and considers the philosophical underpinnings of the field The sixth article by Murray Dulebohn Roehling and Werling presents a very innovative model to explain the role that organizational messages about changes in pay or compensation systems have on anticipatory pay satisfaction The final article in the series by Johnson Thatcher and Burleson presents a thought provoking framework for understanding the key role that information technology IT plays in the field of HRM The series should be useful to researchers and doctoral students in the fields of HRM OB and Industrial and Organizational Psychology It should also be relevant for doctoral courses and scientist practitioners in these fields International Human Resource Management Mila Lazarova, Michael Morley, Shaun Tyson, 2014-01-02 The extent to which organisational performance is related to the Human Resource policies and practices adopted has been a question debated by both academics and practitioners for the past two decades This book takes the debate into the international field by drawing upon the well respected Cranet data set which provides longitudinal and comparative data drawn from 40 countries across the world International Human Resource Management highlights the dominant institutional factors embedded in the societal contexts of different cultures which impact on corporate HR policies and practices and illustrates how these variables influence Human Resource Management and performance It examines how the HR function can impact upon HR policies and influence organisational performance It also discusses the role of the HR department specifically how the distribution of responsibilities between HR managers and line managers moderates the relationship between HR strategic integration and organizational performance Finally it investigates the impact of societal factors on the strategic integration of female HR directors These contributions show the complexity of the relationship between HRM and organisational performance and modify the current prevailing models of this relationship where scant attention has been paid to institutional forces and the cultural economic and social contexts in which organisations are located This book was originally published as a special issue of The International Journal of Human Resource Management
