Dealing with Disaster Sandra K. Schneider, 2014-12-18 Now updated with examples through 2010 this classic study examines the disruptive effects of disasters on patterns of human behavior and the operations of government and the conditions under which even relatively minor crises can lead to system breakdown

2004 Atlantic Hurricane Season, Futureproof Jon Coaffee, 2019-10-14 A compelling and definitive account of why we need to radically rethink our approach to dealing with catastrophic events Catastrophic events such as 9 11 Hurricane Katrina and the Tohoku Triple Disaster of earthquake tsunami and nuclear meltdown that hit the eastern seaboard of Japan in 2012 are seen as surprises that have a low probability of occurring but have a debilitating impact when they do. In this eye-opening journey through modern and ancient risk management practices, Jon Coaffee explains why we need to find a new way to navigate the deeply uncertain world that we live in. Examining how governments have responded to terrorist threats, climate change, and natural hazards, Coaffee shows how and why these measures have proven inadequate and what should be done to make us more resilient. While conventional approaches have focused on planning and preparing for disruptions and enhanced our ability to bounce back, our focus should be on anticipating future challenges and enhancing our capacity to adapt to new threats. Country Report, 2005. Godwell Nhamo, David Chikodzi, 2021-05-24. There is evidence that the world has been witnessing more intense tropical cyclones. Accompanying these tropical cyclones are heightened levels of devastation that witness the loss of human life and wildlife, destruction of natural resources and property, and the disruption of major economic and social activities. To this end, there is a growing demand for publications focusing on tropical cyclones at various levels that include regional, national, and local levels, especially from Africa. One sub-region that has been witnessing the harsh realities of the increasing intensity of tropical cyclones in southern Africa is the region where countries are usually impacted at varying degrees of damage. Among the countries that usually encounter the harshness of these tropical cyclones are the Comoros, Botswana, Madagascar, Mauritius, Malawi, Mozambique, Reunion, the Seychelles, South Africa, and Zimbabwe. From the history books, the following tropical cyclones made landfall and hit southern Africa: Eline 2000, Favio 2007, Dineo 2017, Idai 2019, Kenneth 2019, Eliose 2021, and Chalane 2020. Although all these tropical cyclones had negative impacts, it is undoubtedly Tropical Cyclone Idai that shocked the world with its devastation, mainly in Mozambique, Malawi, and Zimbabwe, in March 2019. Key infrastructure was destroyed, livelihoods were lost, and the environment was degraded. Thousands of people died, many more were injured, many remain unaccounted for, and others remained homeless. As of the time of finalising this book in February 2021, this book therefore focuses on the devastating impacts of Tropical Cyclone Idai in Zimbabwe. The book interfaces Tropical Cyclone Idai's impacts with the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and some of the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). This linkage was deliberate given that there is still time remaining until 2030 and the world has generally agreed to move into the future along the pathways of sustainable development and sustainability. The book adds to the first comprehensive profiling of the impacts of tropical cyclones on southern African economies, particularly that of Zimbabwe. It also comes up as the first in a three-volume series. The other volumes to look out for are Cyclones in Southern Africa Vol 2: Foundational and Fundamental Topics and Cyclones in Southern Africa Vol 3: Implications for the Sustainable Development Goals. To this end, this book is suitable as a read for several professionals and disciplines such as tourism and hospitality studies, economics, sustainable development, development studies, environmental sciences, arts, geography, life sciences, politics, planning, and
