Instructions: Select six words from the word bank to create a short paragraph for a friend. Underline your words and write them in the boxes under the text. Then, write one to two sentences to explain why you selected that word to include.

The Iroquois Confederacy was a group of Native American tribes in North America. It was also known as the Haudenosaunee Confederacy. It was formed in the early 17th century. These Iroquois tribes were separate nations but joined together to form an alliance.

For many years, the Iroquois tribes did not get along. But finally, a leader known as the Great Peacekeeper brought leaders of these tribes together. They talked about how they could create peace among them.

The leaders created an agreement that the nations would be ruled separately but would still have a common government. This agreement was called the Iroquois Confederacy Constitution. The constitution created two branches of government. This is called a bicameral legislature.

The constitution also gave guidelines for creating and electing laws. The agreement gave the power to declare war. It also provided guidelines for removing leaders from office. The Iroquois Confederacy Constitution also allowed women to participate in government.
