The Map of Bones Francesca Haig, 2016-12-06 Book Two in the critically acclaimed The Fire Sermon trilogy The Hunger Games meets Cormac McCarthy's The Road in this richly imagined post apocalyptic series by award winning poet Francesca Haig Four hundred years in the future the Earth has turned primitive following a nuclear fire that has laid waste to civilization and nature Though the radiation fallout has ended for some unknowable reason every person is born with a twin Of each pair one is an Alpha physically perfect in every way and the other an Omega burdened with deformity small or large With the Council ruling an apartheid like society Omegas are branded and ostracized while the Alphas have gathered the world's sparse resources for themselves Though proclaiming their superiority for all their effort Alphas cannot escape one harsh fact whenever one twin dies so does the other Cass is a rare Omega one burdened with psychic foresight While her twin Zach gains power on the Alpha Council she dares to dream the most dangerous dream of all equality For daring to envision a world in which Alphas and Omegas live side by side as equals both the Council and the Resistance have her in their sights Fire Sermon

Women and Personal Property in the Victorian Novel Deborah Wynne, 2016-02-17 How key changes to the married women's property laws contributed to new ways of viewing women in society are revealed in Deborah Wynne's study of literary representations of women and portable property during the period 1850 to 1900 While critical explorations of Victorian women's connections to the material world have tended to focus on their relationships to commodity culture Wynne argues that modern paradigms of consumerism cannot be applied across the board to the Victorian period Until the passing of the 1882 Married Women's Property Act many women lacked full property rights evidence suggests that for women objects often functioned not as disposable consumer products but as cherished personal property Focusing particularly on representations of women and material culture in Charles Dickens George Eliot and Henry James Wynne shows how novelists engaged with the vexed question of women's relationships to property Suggesting that many of the apparently insignificant items that clutter the Victorian realist novel take on new meaning when viewed through the lens of women's access to material culture and the vagaries of property law her study opens up new possibilities for interpreting female characters in

Esther Priyadharshini, 2021-11-25 This book draws on posthumanist critique and post qualitative approaches to research to examine the pedagogies offered by imaginaries of the future Starting with the question of how education can be a process for imagining and desiring better futures that can shorten the Anthropocene it speaks to concerns that are relevant to the fields of education youth and futures studies This book explores lessons from the imaginaries of apocalypse revolution and utopia drawing on research from youthful perspectives in a context when the narrative of youth despair about the future is becoming persistent It investigates how the imaginary of Apocalypse acts as a frame of intelligibility a way of making sense of the monstrosities of the present and also instigates desires to act in different ways Studying the School Climate Strikes of 2019 as Revolution moves us away from the teleologies of capitalist consumption and endless growth to newer aesthetics The strikes function as a public pedagogy that creates new publics that include life beyond the human Finally the book explores how the Utopias of Afrofuturist fiction provides us with a kind of investable utopia because the starting point is in racial economic and ecological injustice If the Apocalypse teaches us to recognize what needs to go and Revolution accepts that living with less than is necessary then this kind of Utopia shows us how becoming more than human may be the future
