A Guide to Spatial History Konrad Lawson,Riccardo Bavaj,Bernhard Struck,2022-01-07

This guide provides an overview of the thematic areas analytical aspects and avenues of research which together form a broader conversation around doing spatial history Spatial history is not a field with clearly delineated boundaries For the most part it lacks a distinct unambiguous scholarly identity It can only be thought of in relation to other typically more established fields Indeed one of the most valuable utilities of spatial history is its capacity to facilitate conversations across those fields. Consequently it must be discussed in relation to a variety of historiographical contexts. Each of these have their own intellectual genealogies, institutional settings and conceptual path dependencies. With this in mind, this guide surveys the following areas: territoriality, infrastructure and borders, nature, environment and landscape, city and home, social space and political protest spaces, knowledge, spatial imaginaries, cartographic representations and historical GIS research.

Reader's Guide to the Social Sciences Jonathan Michie, 2014-02-03. Teaching Social Studies to Multilingual Learners in High School Mark Newman, Xiaoning Chen, 2021-11-15. Teaching Social Studies to Multilingual Learners in High School: Connecting Inquiry and Visual Literacy to Promote Progressive Learning explores effective strategies for teaching social studies to diverse learners. The centerpiece is a visual literacy framework that integrates inquiry, primary source analysis and visual literacy to provide a progressive learning sequence to meet the varied needs of learners. The visual literacy framework brings together related aspects of progressive sequential learning into a cohesive whole. It has an adaptable structure that allows teachers to customize learning activities to meet individual student needs. The progressive learning sequence has varied modes of learning that help teachers move students from basic to proficient to advanced levels of support. The book is organized into two related parts. The first three chapters provide important content and context on social studies, multilingual learner education and the visual literacy framework. The remaining chapters discuss civics, U.S. history, world history, geography and economics and social sciences. Each chapter defines the subject area, briefly traces its development as a high school subject over time and then offers classroom exercises for using the visual literacy framework in these disciplines. The exercises are plotted so that differing levels of the visual literacy framework are explored throughout the book.

The Field Guide to Mixing Social and Biophysical Methods in Environmental Research Rebecca Lave, Stuart Lane, 2025-02-25. Despite ongoing debates about its origins, the Anthropocene, a new epoch characterized by significant human impact on the Earth's geology and ecosystems, is widely acknowledged. Our environment is increasingly a product of interacting biophysical and social forces shaped by climate change, colonial legacies, gender norms, hydrological processes and more. Understanding these intricate interactions requires a mixed methods approach that combines qualitative and quantitative biophysical and social research. However, mixed methods environmental research remains rare, hindered by academic boundaries, limited training and the challenges of interdisciplinary collaboration. Time, funding and the integration of diverse data further complicate this research, whilst the dynamics and ethics of interdisciplinary teams add another layer of complexity. Despite these challenges, mixed methods research offers a more robust and ultimately transformative understanding of environmental questions This Field Guide aims to inspire and equip researchers to undertake such studies Organized like a recipe book it assists researchers in the preparation of their field work as well as offering entry points to key methods and providing examples of successful mixed methods projects This book will be of interest to scholars wishing to tackle environmental research in a more holistic manner spanning sister disciplines such as anthropology statistics political science public health archaeology geography history ecology and Earth science Pratiyogita Darpan ,2006-07
