

Basic Chemistry

According to the author, a compound is composed of two or more elements chemically united. (Underlined) All atoms differently sized, yet identical properties like, mass, size, chemical behavior, hydrogen, oxygen, and nitrogen behaving same like as all being united.

The student explains a compound is made of two or more different elements, combined chemically, forming a new matter that under the influence of some chemical substances the chemical composition of resulting substances changes. He and his classmates suggest chemical substances combine and separate into molecules or being composed, except they are made from ions or free ions.

Consequently, when a new matter having different properties, and the structure and property of the matter completely change chemically, then, chemical reaction and matter transformation is called, such, chemical, from compound, forming a compound from the basic elements.
