Mid Year Life Science 2015 Question Paper Grade 11:

Life in Science Diego Breviario, Jack A. Tuszyński, 2023-03-01 This book is a collection of stories reflections and advice written by proficient scientists They address the question of what doing science means to them and describe attitudes and working practices that have proved effective and rewarding The book is aimed in particular at young people who are attracted by science or already undertaking undergraduate studies and who are considering making science their long term profession It will also be helpful and revealing to early career scientists who are searching for their own best route to success The book serves as a platform for experienced scientists to describe their original inclination how that subjective disposition found its expression in their way of doing science whether their expectations were met and what achievements they can claim But it is not restricted to success contributors also share details of the limitations and failures they have encountered Last but not least they describe how they see science now how they think it will be in the near future and what advice they would give to their much younger colleagues Readers will appreciate the diversity of the individual paths shaped by different education motivation ambition inclination intuition feeling belief and eligibility At the same time the stories confirm that science relies on a translation of this subjective level into an objective level one that is shared and accepted by the international scientific community and whose results are produced with a commonly accepted and fully rational scientific method of investigation

Alternative Models of Addiction Hanna Pickard,Serge H. Ahmed,Bennett Foddy,2015-12-07 For much of the 20th century theories of addictive behaviour and motivation were polarized between two models The first model viewed addiction as a moral failure for which addicts are rightly held responsible and judged accordingly The second model in contrast viewed addiction as a specific brain disease caused by neurobiological adaptations occurring in response to chronic drug or alcohol use and over which addicts have no choice or control As our capacity to observe neurobiological phenomena improved the second model became scientific orthodoxy increasingly dominating addiction research and informing public understandings of addiction More recently however a dissenting view has emerged within addiction research based partly on new scientific research and partly on progress in philosophical and psychological understandings of relevant mental phenomena This view does not revert to treating addiction as a moral failure but nonetheless holds that addictive behaviour is fundamentally motivated by choice and subject to at least a degree of voluntary control On this alternative model of addiction addictive behaviour is an instrumental means to ends that are desired by the individual although much controversy exists with respect to the rationality or irrationality of these ends the degree and nature of the voluntary control of addictive behaviour and motivation the explanation of the difference between addictive and non addictive behaviour and motivation and lastly the extent to which addictive behaviour and motivation is correctly characterised as pathological or diseased This research topic includes papers in the traditions of neuroscience psychology philosophy law and social science that explore alternative understandings of addiction
