

Who?, What?,
When?,
Where?

April 25th, 1915. That was the day we landed on the beach in Gallipoli. We had no idea as to what was about to happen. Arriving in complete darkness just offshore and having to swim to the beach, we lost some men then. As light began to disclose our location the Turks on the hill above rained down bullets forcing us into natural trenches at the foothills.

First person /
past tense

Use of speech
adds drama

We fought hard and managed to establish two beachheads on either side of the coast. The conditions were horrible, people getting hit or falling all around us whilst we were trying to push up. There was never any peace. It was near impossible to sleep with grenades going off so often, the constant cracking of nearby rifles and even nearby enemy mortars going off. I had never killed a person before, and I found it very difficult to do so the first time. I was running up the hill with my battalion and we were met by some Turkish troops who had no idea we were there. Our sergeant ordered us to surprise them, but I simply could not.

This provides an insight into the emotions
surrounding the facts.

After many attempts at gaining control of the hill and thousands of casualties I was emotionally scarred forever. My job was to maintain the troops in the trench. I was a corporal. After many attempts at regaining the hill we decided to call in more troops from our allies, France and Britain. They brought in a combined 95,000 troops which was a huge boost to our campaign confidence and so we pushed up one more time unfortunately losing more troops than ever. With this blow we just waited in our camp for our next orders. It was quite boring, but we tried to create games and have some fun. We also received some biscuits from Australia that could last a long time so that was a nice and tasty treat. Both Turkey and our troops were stuck in a stalemate between trenches.

verbs

details and
facts

Eventually the commanding officers decided there was not much value left in Gallipoli and from the 5th of December 30,000 troops were evacuated for five straight nights. During the first two nights we stopped shooting, tricking the Turks into believing we were preparing for a winter defensive campaign. During this time we kept supplies coming in regularly so as to not raise suspicion. After the two days we had an ingenious idea and devised a rifle that would fire simply from water and weights. This system would fire rifles randomly as to imitate that we were still there. After 5 long nights on the 10th of December the Gallipoli Campaign was officially over. We had escaped with very little suspicion.

Conclusion
reinforces the writer's sense
of war being pointless.

The estimated casualties is somewhere around 9000 with a further 15,000 being injured or falling ill. With all this said it is believed that the Gallipoli Campaign had no effect on the course of the war.

Handbook of the Ryukyuan Languages Patrick Heinrich, Shinsho Miyara, Michinori Shimoji, 2015-02-17 The UNESCO atlas on endangered languages recognizes the Ryukyuan languages as constituting languages in their own right. This represents a dramatic shift in the ontology of Japan's linguistic make-up. Ryukyuan linguistics needs to be established as an independent field of study with its own research agenda and objects. This handbook delineates that the UNESCO classification is now well established and adequate. Linguists working on the Ryukyuan languages are well advised to refute the ontological status of the Ryukyuan languages as dialects. The Ryukyuan languages constitute a branch of the Japonic language family which consists of five unroofed. Abstand language by distance languages. The Handbook of Ryukyuan Languages provides for the most appropriate and up-to-date answers pertaining to Ryukyuan language structures and use and the ways in which these languages relate to Ryukyuan society and history. It comprises 33 chapters written by the leading experts of Ryukyuan languages. Each chapter delineates the boundaries and the research history of the field; it addresses the most important and representative information.

Prioritizing Urban Children, Teachers, and Schools through Professional Development Schools Pia Lindquist Wong, Ronald David Glass, 2009-03-17 How can we better educate disadvantaged urban students? Drawing on over five years' experience in a broad partnership involving twelve urban professional development schools in five districts, a teachers' union, a comprehensive public university, and several community-based organizations, the contributors to this volume describe how they worked together to help disadvantaged urban students through an innovative professional development program. By networking with educators at different levels and coordinating curriculum projects, they were able to begin overcoming rigid and ineffective mandates and curricula tied to standardized test scores and get through to their students on more meaningful and productive levels. The contributors share their successes and failures with these efforts as well as insights related to the ethical, political, and academic challenges faced by professional development schools.

Student Success Modeling Raymond V. Padilla, 2023-07-03 This book focuses on one of the key questions in education: What determines a student's success? Based on twenty years of work on student success, Ray Padilla here presents two related models he has developed that both provide a framework for understanding success and indicate how it can be enhanced and replicated. The research and theory that inform his models are covered in detail. He defines student success simply as progress through a program of study such that the student and others expect him or her to complete it and be promoted to the next level or graduate. Rather than focusing on the reasons for failure or drop out, his approach focuses on understanding the factors that account for student success and that enable many students some of them under the most challenging circumstances to complete all program requirements and graduate The models provide schools and colleges with an analytical tool to uncover the reasons for student success so that they can develop strategies and practices that will enable more students to emulate their successful peers They address the characteristics of the students such as motivation and engagement the ability to surmount barriers and persistence and similarly surface the characteristics of teachers the educational institution its resources and the contexts in which they interact The process provides administrators with a clear and appropriate strategy for action at the level of each individual unit or subpopulation Recognizing the need to develop general models of student success that also can be applied locally to specific situations and contexts the book presents Padilla s Expertise Model of Student Success EMSS that can be applied to general populations as well as the Local Student Success Model LSSM that can be used to drive local institutional strategies to improve student success The book demonstrates how the models have been applied in settings as diverse as a minority high school a community college and an Hispanic Serving Institution and for such purposes as comparing a high performing and a non high performing elementary school Contributors Kimberly S Barker is an assistant professor at Texas A M University Kingsville System Center San Antonio She is currently working in the College of Education Department of Curriculum and Instruction Mary J Miller is the Instructional Compliance Director for the Edgewood Independent School District in San Antonio Texas Prior to this appointment she served as an elementary school principal for ten years George E Norton is the Assistant Vice President of Student Affairs for Admissions Orientation Transition Services at The University of Texas at San Antonio Ralph Mario Wirth is an administrator and director of educational planning at The San Antonio School for Inquiry and Creativity as well as lead researcher for the Democratic Schools Research Institute Inc

Practitioner Research for Social Work, Nursing, and the Health Professions Payam Sheikhattari,Michael T. Wright,Gillian B. Silver,Cyrilla van der Donk,Bas van Lanen,2022-02-01 An invaluable tool for health and social work students and professionals who want to improve their practice through collaborative research with patients clients and colleagues Throughout history some of the most prominent contributors to health and social sciences have been men and women comfortable with both practice and academia But today research in health related fields is increasingly conducted in specialized settings by people who are first and foremost researchers Critics bemoan this loss of practice based research long considered a vital part of the contribution that doctors nurses public health workers and social workers can make both to their field and the communities in which they work Unfortunately the explosion of new discoveries in health related fields along with the exponential increase in the amount of knowledge being produced and the growing demands of practice have caused both the production and application of knowledge to become highly specialized and increasingly complex This has resulted in a widening gap between research and practice Recognizing the need for a guide to this type of research
