

I-Search Paper Requirements and Components

The I-Search Paper will demonstrate your ability to access sources and interpret meaning, organize your thoughts, analyze new knowledge and findings, form personal judgments and conclusions, write with skill and communicate effectively what you have learned. Like traditional research papers, you must use proper citations, and for this you need to follow the MLA style (<http://click.ck12.com/Book/MLA>) as a good resource for this. Be sure to cite sources, use quotations exactly as used, anything you quote from another source, give credit for all ideas that are not your own, and include a correctly formatted Works Cited Page (on back side of assignment page). Unlike traditional research, you will actually use the word "I."

Components of the I-Search Paper:

There are five distinct components to the I-Search paper. This section will take you through the five parts. If you read through this and start writing as it guides you, the process will be a much. It even tells you how long each section should be in order to meet the length requirement. Note all the underlines. I have will also underline all ideas.

Part 1: My Questions—What I Already Know, and What I Want to Know

In this section, you will describe what you already know about the topic, what you were interested in, and what questions you began with. Some questions to guide your work in this section include the following:

- Why have I chosen this topic?
- What product will I create, and how does it relate to this research topic?
- What do I already know about this topic?
- What do I wonder about? What questions do I have? On what particular questions do I want to focus?
- What do I want to "discover" in order to answer my major questions?

In this section, you will probably not cite any research, as it really is just the introduction to your actual work. However, you might refer to particular sources that "hooked" you in terms of interest or ideas which you have gained, what knowledge you already have. This section should be at least 2-3 paragraphs in long and provide the reader with a clear sense of why you're researching your topic, how it relates to creating your product, what you already know, and what you hope to find out.

Practical Ideas for Teaching Writing as a Process Carol B. Olson,1996-02 Contains a collection of specific classroom strategies suggestions for teaching writing to elementary school students according to an eight stage process Specific techniques for teaching each stage of the writing process descriptions of proven approaches for using these techniques are also included A wonderful resource a labor of love from a large talented group of educators Had its beginnings in the California Writing Project at the Univ of California Irvine Best Seller Illustrated Writing the Classroom Stephen E. Neaderhiser,2022-11-21 Writing the Classroom explores how faculty compose and use pedagogical documents to establish classroom expectations and teaching practices as well as to articulate the professional identities they perform both inside and outside the classroom The contributors to this unique collection employ a wide range of methodological frameworks to demonstrate how pedagogical genres even ones as seemingly straightforward as the class syllabus have lives extending well beyond the classroom as they become part of how college teachers represent their own academic identities advocate for pedagogical values and negotiate the many external forces that influence the act of teaching Writing the Classroom shines a light on genres that are often treated as two dimensional with purely functional purposes arguing instead that genres like assignment prompts course proposals teaching statements and policy documents play a fundamental role in constructing the classroom and the broader pedagogical enterprise within academia Writing the Classroom calls on experienced teachers and faculty administrators to critically consider their own engagement with pedagogical genres and offers graduate students and newer faculty insight into the genres that they may only now be learning to inhabit as they seek to establish their personal teacherly identities It showcases the rhetorical complexity of the genres written in the service of pedagogy not only for students but also for the many other audiences within academia that have a role in shaping the experience of teaching Contributors Michael Albright Lora Arduser Lesley Erin Bartlett Logan Bearden Lindsay Clark Dana Comi Zack K De Piero Matt Dowell Amy Ferdinandt Stolley Mark A Hannah Megan Knight Laura R Micciche Cindy Mooty Dustin Morris Kate Navickas Kate Nesbit Jim Nugent Lori A Ostergaard Cynthia Pengilly Jessica Rivera Mueller Christina Saidy Megan Schoen Virginia Schwarz Christopher Toth Content Area Literacy John E. Next Generation Genres Jessica Singer Early, 2022-11-29 Students need updated writing genres and a real reason to write Evolutions in technology and connectivity have brought about significant changes in the ways writing is produced and shared Yet despite monumental shifts in the practice of writing how we teach writing has remained largely static What we need is a new set of genres for writing instruction genres that will speak to students who are already immersed in rich and multifaceted literacy practices through social media gaming and new technologies Jessica S Early's Next Generation Genres provides an alternative framework for a secondary writing curriculum that places a central emphasis on helping students gain the experience they need to write with confidence in academic and civic life If your students' eyes glaze over when they face a standard essay assignment perhaps it's time to let them try writing an infographic or a podcast
