The Music of Michael Nyman Pwyll ap Siôn, 2017-07-05 Nyman's rise to international prominence during the last three decades has made him one of the world's most successful living composers His music has nevertheless been criticized for its parasitic borrowing of other composers' ideas and for its relentless self borrowing In this first book length study in English Pwyll ap Siôn laces Nyman's writings within the general context of Anglo American experimentalism minimalism and post minimalism and provides a series of useful contexts from which controversial aspects of Nyman's musical language can be more clearly understood and appreciated Drawing upon terms informed by intertextual theory in general appropriation and borrowing are first introduced within the context of twentieth century art music and theory Intertextual concepts are explained and their terms defined before Nyman's musical language is considered in relation to a series of intertextual classifications and types These types then form the basis of a more in depth study of his works during the second half of the book ranging from opera and chamber music to film. Rather than restricting style and technique Nyman's intertextual approach on the contrary is shown to provide his music with an almost infinite amount of variety, flexibility and diversity and this has been used to illustrate a wide range of technical, aesthetic and expressive forms. He composes with his ear towards the past as if it were a rich quarry to mine, working like a musical archaeologist uncovering artefacts and chiselling fresh and vibrant sonic edifices out of them.

Intertextuality in Western Art Music Michael Leslie Klein, 2005. The first book length consideration of questions relating to music and meaning.

Writing through Music Jann Pasler, 2007-12-12. Drawing on a passion for music, a remarkably diverse interdisciplinary toolbox and a gift for accessible language that speaks equally to scholars and the general public, Jann Pasler invites us to read as she writes through music, unveiling the forces that affect our sonic encounters. In an extraordinary collection of historical and critical essays, some appearing for the first time in English, Pasler deconstructs the social, moral and political preoccupations lurking behind aesthetic taste. Arguing that learning from musical experience is vital to our understanding of past, present and future, Pasler's work trenchantly reasserts the role of music as a crucial contributor to important public debates about who we can be as individuals, communities and nations. The author's wide ranging and perceptive approaches to musical biography and history challenge us to rethink our assumptions about important cultural and philosophical issues including national identity and postmodern musical hybridity, material culture, the economics of power and the relationship between classical and popular music. Her work uncovers the self-fashioning of modernists such as Vincent d'Indy, Augusta Holm's, Jean Cocteau and John Cage and addresses categories such as race, gender and class in the early 20th century in ways that resonate with experiences today. She also explores how music uses time and constructs narrative. Pasler's innovative and influential methodological approaches such as her notion of question spaces open up the complex cultural and political networks in which music participates. This provides us with the reasons and tools to engage with music in fresh and exciting ways. In these thoughtful essays, music, whether beautiful or cacophonous, reassuring or seemingly incomprehensible, comes alive as a bearer of ideas and practices that offers deep insights into how we negotiate the world. Jann Pasler's Writing through Music brilliantly demonstrates how music can be a critical lens to focus the contemporary critical, cultural, historical and social issues of our time.
