

Evolution Study Guide

1. Name three men whose ideas contributed to Darwin's theory (other than Darwin), and tell what they had to say.

Lamarck- species change over time

Malthus- the number of people in the human population increases faster than the food supply

Wallace – proposed a theory a lot like Darwin's theory of natural selection

2. What specifically, did Darwin observe on the Galapagos islands that led him to develop the theory of natural selection?

Different species of birds were very similar to each other and to mainland birds, but they were each adapted to use a different food source and live in differing environmental conditions

3. State the four points of Darwin's Theory.

- a. Variations exist in a population
- b. The best adapted to an environment survive.
- c. They reproduce and pass on their genes
- d. The fossil record supports this idea.

4. Define:

- a. natural selection- the environment "decides" which individuals in a population are best adapted to it because they will survival & successfully reproduce
- b. adaptation- any change in physical appearance or behavior that helps the members of a population to survive
- c. speciation- formation of a new species from an existing one
- d. reproductive isolation- when members of two different species cannot or will not breed together.
- e. paleontologist- one who studies fossils

5. Contrast gradualism with punctuated equilibrium.

Gradualism- a slow change in a population over time

Punctuated equilibrium- a long period of no changes in a population followed by a period of rapid change, producing new species (usually due to a severe change in the environment)

6. In what way did Darwin's finches vary from each other? What did Darwin think was the cause of the variations? The birds vary in color and patterns in their feathers and in the type and size of their beaks. Darwin thought this was due to where they lived, but especially to what they ate.

7. What is a nonrandom mating type selection?

Inbreeding- choosing a mate from the local population, happens when a population is isolated

Outbreeding- deliberately choosing a mate from a nonlocal population

Choosing a mate for some "desirable" characteristic in the possible mate instead of randomly.

Teaching About Evolution and the Nature of Science National Academy of Sciences, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Science Education, Working Group on Teaching Evolution, 1998-04-06. Today many school students are shielded from one of the most important concepts in modern science: evolution. In engaging and conversational style, Teaching About Evolution and the Nature of Science provides a well-structured framework for understanding and teaching evolution. Written for teachers, parents, and community officials as well as scientists and educators, this book describes how evolution reveals both the great diversity and similarity among the Earth's organisms; it explores how scientists approach the question of evolution and it illustrates the nature of science as a way of knowing about the natural world. In addition, the book provides answers to frequently asked questions to help readers understand many of the issues and misconceptions about evolution. The book includes sample activities for teaching about evolution and the nature of science. For example, the book includes activities that investigate fossil footprints and population growth that teachers of science can use to introduce principles of evolution. Background information materials and step-by-step presentations are provided for each activity. In addition, this volume presents the evidence for evolution, including how evolution can be observed today. Explains the nature of science through a variety of examples. Describes how science differs from other human endeavors and why evolution is one of the best avenues for helping students understand this distinction. Answers frequently asked questions about evolution. Teaching About Evolution and the Nature of Science builds on the 1996 National Science Education Standards released by the National

Research Council and offers detailed guidance on how to evaluate and choose instructional materials that support the standards Comprehensive and practical this book brings one of today s educational challenges into focus in a balanced and reasoned discussion It will be of special interest to teachers of science school administrators and interested members of the community
