

Problem Solution Essay Example

Due to poorer countries experiencing a 'brain drain' they are seeing many professionals, such as doctors and teachers, leaving to work in more developed countries.

What problems does this cause?

What solutions can be suggested to deal with this situation?

In many developing countries, there are a number of skilled academics leaving in search of better pay, increased socioeconomic benefits, and the chance to earn citizenship in a developed country. In this essay, I will examine the impact this has had on the more poverty stricken countries and suggest how this situation could be improved.

The foremost problem with skilled professionals, such as doctors and teachers leaving is that it deprives the country of people who are necessary to its survival. A shortage of doctors in hospitals could lead to them being severely understaffed, even though they have the trained doctors and nurses who are local and willing to work. In addition, some academic institutions will also suffer, with a lack of skilled teachers in highly desirable subjects, like maths, science and languages. Many professionals desire better pay and working conditions, leaving in search of a better lifestyle, so that they can earn a higher salary. For example, a study from Bucharest University showed that in Romania in 2014, 75% of graduates had applied to work in the UK and the USA.

A possible solution to this problem is for skilled professionals to enter into mandatory service in their origin country, before being able to migrate. Those who earn their qualifications from state universities should have to work in service to their country for a set amount of time, even though they are ready for the wider workplace. This would address the shortage of workers in hospitals and schools, meanwhile gaining experience, in order to give something back to their community and country. For instance, in Romania, it is common practice for graduates from state-funded university courses to work in areas where their services are needed for a minimum of two years before they are able to apply to work abroad.

In conclusion, with the rising demand for nurses, doctors and teachers in economically rich countries like the UK, more and more people are leaving their poor origin countries in search of better pay, working conditions and benefits. It is, therefore, necessary for governments to put appropriate schemes into place, with mandatory service for state-funded degree holders.

Universities and the Myth of Cultural Decline

Jerry Herron, 1988 Jerry Herron argues that the vision of culture as an end in itself has been all too thoroughly fulfilled in the present state of humanities education but only because the humanities have lost their social function. In this book he attempts to provide a constructive alternative to the nostalgia and pessimism currently prevailing. In Herron's view the humanities are not really irrelevant; it is that the intellectual and political conversation that they represent is only latent rather than publicly manifest. The humanities can only be justified in a world of work and power by proving useful in that world. The academic humanities harbor a general intellectual conversation that could potentially be interesting and even useful to society at large. Arguing that the prevailing analyses are wide of the mark, Herron recommends that universities undertake to promote a new cultural literacy. Based on a collaborative enterprise open to all, its focus is the effective sharing of information and experience.

Creep in Structures Michal Zyczkowski, 2013-03-08 There is a tradition to organize IUTAM Symposia Creep in Structures every ten years: the first Symposium was organized by N. J. Hoff in Stanford 1960, the second one by J. Hult in Goteborg 1970 and the third one by A. R. S. Ponter in Leicester 1980. The fourth Symposium in Cracow September 1990 gathered 123 participants from 21 countries and reflected rapid development of the theory, experimental research and structural applications of creep and viscoplasticity including damage and rupture. Indeed the scope of the Symposium was broad, maybe even too broad, but it was kept according to the tradition. Probably the chairman of Creep in Structures V in the year 2000, if organized at all, will be forced to confine the scope substantially. Participation in the Symposium was reserved for invited participants suggested by members of the Scientific Committee. Total number of suggestions was very large and the response unexpectedly high. Apart from several papers rejected as being out of scope, over 100 papers were accepted for presentation. A somewhat unconventional way of presentation was introduced to provide ample time for fruitful and well prepared discussions besides general lectures, 30 minutes each; all the remaining papers were presented as short introductory lectures, 10 minutes, followed by a 1-hour poster discussion with the authors and then by a general discussion. Such an approach made it possible to present general ideas orally and then to discuss all the papers through and through.

Proceedings of the Twenty-fourth Annual Conference of the Cognitive Science Society Wayne D. Gray, Christian D. Schunn, 2019-04-24 This volume features the complete text of the material presented at the Twenty-Fourth Annual Conference of the Cognitive Science Society. As in previous years, the symposium included an interesting mixture of papers on many topics from researchers with diverse backgrounds and different goals, presenting a multifaceted view of cognitive science. The volume includes all papers, posters and summaries of symposia presented at this leading conference that brings cognitive scientists together. The 2002 meeting dealt with issues of representing and modeling cognitive processes as they appeal to scholars in all subdisciplines that comprise cognitive science: psychology, computer science, neuroscience, linguistics and philosophy.
