Love, Money, and HIV Sanyu A. Mojola, 2014-05-10 Sanyu A. Mojola examines how young African women who suffer disproportionate rates of HIV infection compared to young African men navigate their relationships schooling employment and finances in the context of economic inequality and a devastating HIV epidemic Mojola argues that the entanglement of love money and the transformation of girls into consuming women lies at the heart of women's coming of age and health crises

A Manual for the Heads of Secondary Schools in Kenya Kenya. Ministry of Education, 1979 Education, Productivity, and Inequality John B. Knight, R. H. Sabot, 1990 The relationship between resources devoted to education and the economy of developing nations is explored The research seeks to understand if and how investment in education translates into increased economic growth and labor productivity Additionally the function of education in reducing various dimensions of economic inequality is examined The two East African nations that are the study's focus Kenya and Tanzania have similar levels of income but they differ markedly in their public policy toward the provision of secondary education and thus in the educational attainment of the labor force The research findings provide strong backing for the human capital paradigm educational expansion is shown to raise labor productivity The results also show that making education less scarce diminishes inequality in access to education and in income Numerous figures and tables of data appear throughout this volume a list of 170 references is included

DB Mau Mau's Children David P. Sandgren, 2012-08-06 In 1963 David P. Sandgren went to Kenya to teach in a small rural school for boys where he remained for the next four years These were heady times for Kenyans as the nation gained its independence approved a new constitution and held its first elections In the school where Sandgren taught the sons of Gikuyu farmers rose to the challenges of this post colonial era and in time entered Kenyan society as adults joining Kenya's first generation of post colonial elites In Mau Mau's Children Sandgren has reconnects with these former students Drawing on more than one hundred interviews he provides readers with a collective biography of the lives of Kenya's first postcolonial elite stretching from their 1940s childhood to the peak of their careers in the 1990s Through these interviews Mau Mau's Children shows the trauma of growing up during the Mau Mau Rebellion the nature of nationalism in Kenya the new generational conflicts arising and the significance of education and Gikuyu ethnicity on his students path to success
