 - Genes are made up of DNA (Deoxyribonucleic Acid).
 - A locus is any characteristic that an organism displays. Traits are produced by two alleles (a pair) that determine genetic and their environment.
 - The genome is the complete set of genetic instructions (including all an organism's chromosomes) a biological systems and processes, patterns of cellular structure.
 - Only 1-2% of our DNA encodes proteins.
 - 98-99% of the genome contains DNA sequences that are either coding features that code for protein products.
 - 98-99% of the genome contains DNA sequences that regulate expression of proteins.
 - For a gene that encodes a structure, a mutation must occur at that gene location in the genome.
 - For a gene that encodes a function, a mutation must occur at that gene location and then must mutate that gene.
 - The genome contains many repetitive DNA sequences that do not encode proteins found in the genome.
 - Chromosomes hold all (very) important genes and associated proteins.
 - Similar genome structure pattern.
 - All cells in body contain the genome.
 - Every genome contains, at least, a copy of every human gene.
- iii. Expression of genes
