INTRODUCTION	In the previous lesson, we looked at culture in the Western Cape. South Africa a rainbow nation. For many years foreign tourists have visited South Africa and especially the Western Cape for its natural beauty and the uniqueness of its fauna and flora and its attractions such as Table Mountain, Cederberg and the Garden Route. The National Parks were also on their lists and wanted to see the Big Five in their natural environment. In the process, the incredible Cultural Diversity of society has been overlooked. With the advent of Democracy in 1994, our cultural diversity was recognized, and South Africa became known as the "Rainbow Nation". Foreign Tourists still come to South Africa for its natural beauty but increasingly tourists want to see and experience the Unique Cultural Diversity. According to the CAPS document, learners should be exposed to the following: The uniqueness of South African cultures How cultural uniqueness and diversity in South Africa can promote inbound and local tourism.
