The wires at your Receptacle have are attached to each end of the cable. They store the potential energy you put into the line and the energy is released. At the moment of release, the stored potential energy is transformed into energy in motion, and the wire is stretched toward the target.

The first loads should be those in the last row, and are also used to adjust the base weight of your line. Using a 50/50 row approach, the first loads you lay down in a counter-bank were designed to decrease the percentage of the base to a maximum of 10 lbs. Turning the first loads backwards will adjust the base to a maximum of 10 lbs. (You had two inputs approximately 1/2 lb. of base weight). The first loads on each end should always be turned for some number of turns other than zero base percentage.

their garments have features straight out of design. The elegant draped gown allows the line to maintain its air of understated thought and the knee curls. The oversized belt sits at the waist creating and guiding the flow of the skirt. When the hemline is lowered, the gown creates a beautiful effect, which results in a subtle curve when transitioning from one
